

TWO MORE VICTORIES.

Very Encouraging Work—Much Life in Yale's Play.

On Wednesday, October 14th, the University team met the Williams eleven at the Field and won the game by the score of 22 to 0. Rain made the ground uncertain and the play somewhat unsteady. Despite the forbidding weather, a large crowd was present, including a delegation from Williamstown.

The week before, Harvard had defeated the Williams team by the very small score of 6—0, and this led enthusiasts to believe that the game against Yale would be close and exciting, but such was not the case. Hinkey and Chauncey, for Yale, out-punted Draper, especially in the second half. Chamberlain, Conner, Chauncey and Van Every did good work for Yale, while for Williams, Davis, Chadwell and Draper played the best game.

In the second half Branch was substituted for Denman on the visiting team, and Hazen, Mills, Chauncey and Gilmore for Conner, Van Every, Hinkey and Benjamin, respectively.

The game was an interesting one to watch as the punting was a prominent feature.

The line-up follows:

YALE.	POSITION	WILLIAMS.
Conner, r.e.,		r.e., Rutter
Hazen, r.e.,		r.e., Fifer
Murphy, (Capt.) r.t.,		r.t., Loty

YALE, 42; DARTMOUTH, 0.

Although at no time during the last three weeks have football prospects looked very discouraging, nevertheless after last Saturday's game which was won against Dartmouth by the score of 42 to 0, Yale stock rose considerably. The contest was the liveliest seen on the Field this season. Yale's work being decidedly snappy and effective. The backs hung together well, making good interference, and every man seemed to get into each play. The Dartmouth team played at a great disadvantage owing to the loss of the entire regular right side of the line as well as that of their fullback, which prevented frequent kicking, and accounted in some measure, for Yale's large score.

For Dartmouth, Crollius, Eckstrom and Kelly did good work, and Benjamin, Bass and Hazen played well for Yale.

The first two touchdowns were made within ten minutes of the kick-off without Yale's losing the ball. Van Every scored the last touchdown of this half and Hinkey kicked goal.

In the second half Yale made four more touchdowns, Gilmore and Mills each making one, Alport making the other two. Chauncey kicked three of the goals.

The line-up and summary follow:

YALE.	POSITION.	DARTMOUTH.
Hazen, r.e.,		r.e., C. Walker

Dwight Hall Decennial Celebration.

The tenth anniversary of the dedication of Dwight Hall was commemorated last Sunday with fitting exercises. The sermon in the morning was preached by the Rev. Joseph Anderson, D. D., of the Yale Corporation, in which he alluded to the work done by the Young Men's Christian Association of the University and the direct influence that Dwight Hall exerted over the religious life of the students.

The usual class prayer meetings were conducted by members of the Graduate Advisory committee of the Association and in the afternoon an informal meeting of the leaders of Christian work in the Scientific School with the Graduate committee was held.

The general religious meeting of the University was held in the evening in Dwight Hall and was presided over by Mr. Richard C. Morse, '62. Addresses were made by J. B. Reynolds, '84 and W. Sloane, '95.

The growth of membership in the University Y. M. C. A. has been very remarkable since the erection of Dwight Hall. In 1886 the total membership was 256, of which all but 21 were active. In the present year the membership is 1,008 of which 675 are active. The current expenses of the association amounted to $225 in 1886 and in the past year has been $4,700.

A very pleasant feature of the Decennial celebration was the presentation of a portrait of Mr. Elbert B. Monroe, the donor of the building, by his wife. This picture will be hung over the fire place in the large reception room.

Coaching at Cornell.

The Cornell Daily Sun of October 10, contains a two column portrait of G. Foster Sanford, the ex-Yale football player, together with a full account of his athletic career. Commenting editorially the Sun says: "We take pleasure in publishing to-day a picture of G. F. Sanford, who is rendering Captain Beacham valuable assistance in developing a strong football team this Fall. Though the conspicuous Y on his sweater may appear distasteful to some under-graduates, because of our past relations with his Alma Mater, it may be said that Sanford is a true sportsman. Were every under-graduate at Yale as true a sportsman as our coach, and were that student body given its say as regards boat races, and other athletic contests, it is probable that the carnelian and white, and the blue would have met long since. Sanford has made a host of friends at Cornell, who appreciate his hard and faithful work."

Special Division in Greek.

Contrary to the usual custom no special division of the Freshmen in Greek will be conducted this year. Formerly those who had passed superior papers in Greek on the entrance examinations were, in the second or third week of the term, classed in one division and given an opportunity for more advanced study. This year, however, it is the intention to wait until Christmas before anything definite is done, and then to make up a division in Greek in each section, consisting of those who have done excellent work in that study during the term.

The President of the University Young Men's Christian Association has appointed the following committee to take charge of the religious work in the Scientific Freshman class: L. S. Treadwell, chairman; A. M. Bell, G. R. Hall, R. A. McGee and S. F. Shattuck.

Yale Harvard Debating.

At the beginning of the season, Mr. C. U. Clark, '97, one of the representatives of Yale last year in the Yale-Princeton debate, sent a letter to Mr. F. Dobyns, Harvard, '98, asking him if the Harvard Advisory Board on Debating was likely to allow the Freshman class to engage in any debate with Yale this year. He also requested him to bring the matter before the Board.

An answer was recently received, written by Mr. Adolphe Monell-Sayre, Secretary of the Advisory Board, stating that "after due consideration the Board resolved that it re-affirm its action of last year in declining to permit the Harvard Freshman class to engage in any inter-collegiate debate during the present academic year."

Another matter of interest concerning debating is the fact that two or three letters have already been written to Harvard, but as yet no answer has been received, in regard to the question as to whether Harvard would sanction the agreement concerning inter-collegiate debating, such as has been adopted by Princeton and Yale.

The "Record" for 1896-97.

Two editions of the "Yale Record" have thus far appeared. No visible changes were made in the first issue from the paper of last year, but the second copy which came out last Saturday, shows some marked differences. The size is somewhat larger, especially in its width, while the title page is of an entirely different design. The drawing at the top of the page is narrower and extends farther down on the left hand side. In this respect it resembles more the "Record" of three years ago. The design, which was made by Raymond M. Crosby, '98, represents a jester, who, seated beside an owl on a large quill pen, is writing by moonlight. Beneath him on the left hand side of the page appears the gateway of Vanderbilt Hall, from which is issuing the football player, the musician with his banjo, the crew man, carrying his oar over his shoulder, the senior with his cap and gown and the golf player in his knickerbockers. The editorial page also has a new heading which was drawn by Frederick A. M. Schieffelin, '97S.

In the last issue the large center drawing is by R. de P. Tytus and is entitled "Politics." On one side Bryan is represented as vainly waving his arms to induce quiet and on the other side is a fac-simile of the telegram addressed to the "Yale Hoodlums," from the "Bryan and Sewall Texans."

W. W. Heffelfinger, '91 S., is expected to coach the University eleven a week before the Princeton game.

At a meeting of '99S., held last Thursday in Room 2, North Sheffield Hall, for the purpose of electing officers for the year, the following were elected: President, S. B. Sutphin; Vice-President, A. M. Bell; Secretary, by a tie vote, C. A. Warden and A. H. Durston.
