

YALE MEN AT PRINCETON.

How the Visiting Delegation was Entertained at the Celebration.

The committee of twenty-four men chosen from the Senior classes of the Academic and Scientific Departments to represent Yale in the torch light parade of Princeton's celebration, started from New Haven Wednesday morning, arriving at their destination at noon. Everything had been well arranged for them and each one of the delegation was assigned to some undergraduate upon whose hospitality he was dependent during his stay. They took their meals together in University Hall, which had been especially fitted up for that purpose. On Wednesday afternoon a football game was played between Princeton and University of Virginia, which the Yale men attended, cheering enthusiastically for Princeton.

In the evening the celebration was continued in a torch light parade. The Yale delegation composed the third division, preceded by the Seventy-first Regiment Band of New York, and the Mercer Blues, and followed by the Princeton undergraduates. During the march the college cheers of the various delegations were given repeatedly. Among which could be plainly distinguished the well known "Breck-ek-ek-ex" with a hearty "Princeton" at the end. As they marched before the reviewing stand in front of Nassau Hall, the Yale representatives were cheered by each of the Princeton undergraduate classes and Professor Cameron of the Princeton Faculty especially thanked them for their presence at the celebration. After the parade they were entertained by the graduate class of Princeton, '94. The next morning occurred the exercises and conferring of degrees in Alexander Hall, for which some members of the delegation stayed over, but the others returned to New York late Wednesday night.

What has Happened to Yale.

[Frisco (Cal.) Republican.]

The parvenu sons of the suddenly rich appear to have captured the grand old institution of learning, and not infrequently their gross handiwork is in disgraceful evidence. Yale should be ashamed of the band of hoodlums in good clothing who bring reproach to her once proud name.

Academic Senior Class Officers.

A meeting of the Academic Senior Class was held last Tuesday evening for the election of the various class officers and committees, which were chosen as follows:

- Class Poet—Munger.
- Class Secretary—Sumner.
- Class Orator—Studinski.
- Statistician—G. L. Parker.
- Ivy Committee—Hemenway, Thomas and Hamilton.
- Triennial Committee—Kerr, Maddox and Darrach.
- Cup Committee—W. J. Lapham, Russell and Judd.
- Historians—De Camp, T. L. Clark, Day, Gerard and Tilney.
- Supper Committee—Hill, Harkness, Brookfield, H. Lapham and Babcock.
- Class Day Committee—Sage, Hinkley, Heffelfinger, Garrison and Brooke.

Students Made Voters.

About eighty students applied this fall to the Board of Selectmen of New Haven for registration as voters. More than half were allowed to vote. The way was made easier than usual, as the Republicans on the board favored the students' applications, believing they would cast their votes for gold candidates. At first the Democrats solidly opposed, making a tie in the Board. Later one of the Democratic selectmen agreed, in the case of many of the applicants, with the Republicans, and so allowed their registration.

The conditions insisted upon for registration require that the students should be residents of the State a year, of the town six months, and that they should be self-supporting. A curious distinction refused recognition of those students who had not been in the State a year after becoming of age.

Another Report of it.

[Independence Luxembourgeoise.]

He (Mr. Bryan) was to deliver a great speech at New Haven, the most important city in Connecticut, but the young men of the University of that city prevented him from speaking. The students interrupted him at every moment by singing a song in which the word "gold" occurred continually. Finally the orator understood that if his speech was of silver, silence was of gold before an audience so little disposed in his favor. He, however, lost nothing, because it appears that on account of the uproar caused by the young rowdies a change has been produced at New Haven in favor of the silver candidate.
