GROVE PETTIBONE LAWRENCE, '56.

Judge Lawrence, '56, died at his home in Pana, Illinois, Oct. 27, from the effects of a malady under which he had suffered for nearly three years. a gradual paralysis of brain and throat.

He was a native of Norfolk, Conn., and entered the class of 1856 in its Freshman year. After graduation he spent two years in farming in Norfolk, and then removed to Pana, Illinois, where, engaged as a farmer, merchant or banker he continued to reside until his decease.

For twelve successive years he held the position of Justice of the Peace at Pana, repeated elections attesting his standing in the community as a conscientious, competent and popular officer; and as a member of the First Presbyterian church of his town, his influence was continuous, consistent and nobly effective in the promotion of upright living, patriotic devotion and all things true and good in Christian citizenship. He married in October, 1866, Miss Ella G. Blackburn, of Pana.

The living members of his family are Mrs. Lawrence, E. Grove, a son associated with the Marquette Coal Co. of Chicago; Mrs. Lida B. Wiley, a daughter residing at Charleston, Ill., and Hiram B., a son in business at Pana.
