

NEWS OF OTHER COLLEGES.

HARVARD.

Judging from the large attendance and enthusiasm displayed at the mass meeting held in Sanders Theater on Monday night it certainly seems as if the interest shown recently in rowing affairs by Harvard men is real and of a permanent character, and not merely a passing curiosity aroused by the advent of Mr. Lehmann, and which will disappear on his departure. Speeches were made by Major Higginson, Hon. William Everett and Mr. Lehmann. The latter is quoted as follows:

"To a cold-blooded philosopher it seems ridiculous that eight men should wield their oars, not for gain, but merely for mental and physical consideration, for the sake of rowing alone. We older men love to see you engage in this sport, for we know that it is a splendid physical exercise, promotive of all manly virtues. The desire of victory must be present, but the victory itself is nothing. Ever in exercise we can have high ideals and lofty aims. Let us do whatever we have to do with all our might and main.

"I look forward to the time when I shall return, and with the help of the oarsmen we shall carry the work to a successful issue. I thank you for the opportunity you have given to me of addressing you; for your patience and courtesy to me here, and, above all, because you have given to my heart a right to beat in unison with those of Harvard men the world over."

Mr. Lehmann sailed yesterday for England, but expects to return to Cambridge early in March, and will be with the crew until after the Poughkeepsie race.

The Harvard University crew took their last row of the year on the river Friday afternoon, and will not go into training again until some time in January. The men rowed in the following order: Stroke, Bull; 7, Goodrich; 6, J. P. Perkins; 5, J. H. Perkins; 4, Sprague; 3, Hollister; 2, Thomson; bow, Boardman.

It has been decided to omit the usual Fall concert given in Sanders Theater by the Musical Clubs and to give a concert in its stead after the Christmas recess.

PRINCETON.

The first of the series of six indoor handicap meetings arranged by the Princeton Track Management was held at the Casino last Wednesday afternoon. One of the most serious obstacles with which Princeton track athletics has had to contend in the past has been the lack of incentive to steady winter practice and it is hoped that these competitions will put a new interest into the rather monotonous work of the track men. Only four events were contested on account of darkness, and the remainder will probably be concluded next Saturday. Although the program was not completed the events were very interesting, especially the 28 yards dash, in which there were three dead heats.

The summary of the games is as follows:

28 yard dash, final—Jarvis, 1900 (scratch), first; Heindon, '99 (4 feet), second; Bottger, '99, (3 feet), third; time 3 4-5 seconds.

Putting 12 pound shot—Bottger, '99, (31-2 feet), first; Garrett, '97, (scratch), second; distance, 43 feet.

Putting 16 pound shot—Craig, Senior, (3 feet), first; Potter, '98, (4 feet), second; Garrett, '97, (scratch), third; distance, 35 feet 10-12 inches.

Light weight wrestling—Poe, 1900, threw Harkness, '97; time, 1 minute, 45 seconds.

The Seniors have elected the following class officers: President, Robert Garrett, Jr., of Baltimore, Md.; Vice-President, W. W. Wilson of Clarion, Pa.; Master of Ceremonies, Jerome Bradley of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; Secretary, J. H. Keener of Harrisburg, Pa.; Class Orator, W. M. Post of Beirut, Syria; poet, A. W. Leonard, of Cincinnati, O.; Historian, S. M. Palmer of Philadelphia, Pa.; Ivy Orator, Seward Erdman of Morristown, N. J.; Presentation Orator, J. G. Jayne of Newark, Pa.; Prophet, Edwin Schortz, Jr., of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; Censor, B. R. Miller of Germantown, Pa.; Washington's Birthday Orator, W. A. Reynolds of Atlantic City, N. J.; Class of '76 prize debater, W. B. Ramsey of Belle Center, O.

Ground has been broken for the new dormitory, Blair Hall, on the west side of the Campus. The workmen are now making excavations for the foundations of the building at the end next to Witherspoon Hall. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible and from present prospects the building will be ready for occupancy next Fall as was originally intended.

The Inter-hall committee on debate has decided to hold a supper at the Princeton Inn immediately after the Harvard debate on Dec. 18. It is expected that there will be representatives present from both Yale and Harvard who will make short addresses. The Inter-hall committee has extended an invitation to the students at Yale to be present at this debate.

At a recent meeting of those men in College interested in whist, it was decided to hold a tournament as soon as possible. A challenge has been received from Yale for a series of games to be played in the early Spring, and it is for the purpose of determining whether there is a sufficient knowledge of the game in Princeton to justify the acceptance of the challenge, that the tournament has been arranged.

OTHER COLLEGE ITEMS.

William McKeever, '98, is Cornell's football captain for next year. He played substitute end on the University of Pennsylvania team in '93 until injuries compelled his retirement. Last year he played left end on Cornell's team, and this season he has played at right half back.

John H. Minds, '98, will captain the Pennsylvania eleven next year. He has played on the team for three years, first at tackle, then at half back, and this year at full back.

William F. Donovan, of Natick, Mass., will be trainer of the Brown athletic team for the next year.

W. F. Nesbitt, '98, has been elected captain of the West Point football team.

The question for the Cornell-Pennsylvania debate will be, "Resolved, That the United States and the several states should establish Courts of Compulsory Adjustment of Disputes between employes and private corporations, which possess franchises of a public nature." The debate will be held in Philadelphia, March 6.

The following University of Pennsylvania football players have been granted the privilege of wearing the "P" upon their sweaters: Wharton, Woodruff, Overfield, Uffenheimer, Farrar, B. W. Dickson, Hedges, Boyle, Weeks, Goodman, A. K. Dickson, Morice, Minds, Jackson and Gelbert. William H. Wanamaker has presented the entire team with souvenirs in the shape of small gold footballs, each of which has on the back the name and position of the owner.

According to the latest reports of U. S. Commissioner of Education, Harris, there are in this country, 481 colleges and universities. These enjoyed during the past year a total income of $16,783,638, employed 8,459 instructors, and enrolled 63,402 undergraduates and 4,273 graduate students.

The annual football game between Oxford and Cambridge Universities was played at Kensington Oval, Dec. 9. Oxford won by the score of 9 goals to 8.

YALE MEN AS LAWYERS.

Prominent Alumni in the Profession—Their Location.

Mr. Francis Bergstrom, a graduate of Yale College in the class of '88 and a member of the Minneapolis Bar, has compiled and published a directory of the graduates of Yale College in the practice of law. It is arranged in alphabetical order by States, cities and towns. The names are arranged in order of classes, the name of the oldest graduate in any place being first, etc. It contains 1,400 names, representing 40 States, 300 cities and towns and six foreign countries. The purpose of this directory is to facilitate professional correspondence among Yale graduates.

In glancing over its pages many eminent names are noticed, among them the names of three United States Supreme Court Justices,—Shiras, Brewer and Brown; Hon. William K. Townsend, Judge of the United States District Court of Connecticut; Hon. John M. Thayer, Judge of the Superior Court of Connecticut; Hon. Leonard E. Wales and Hon. Charles M. Cullen, Associate Justices of the Superior Court of Delaware; Hon. Anthony Higgins, ex-United States Senator; Hon. Henry B. Freeman, Judge of the Superior Court of Illinois; Hon. James H. Brent, Judge of the Superior Court of Kentucky; Hon. Isaac Atwater, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Minnesota; Hon. Irvington G. Vann, Judge of the Court of Appeals for New York; Hon. Joseph F. Barnard, Judge of the Supreme Court of New York; Hon. Robert M. Wilson, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; Hon. Alfred Hand, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; Hon. LeBaron B. Colt, Judge of the United States Court of Rhode Island; Hon. William S. Fleming, Judge of the Superior Court of Tennessee; Hon. John B. Rector, Judge of the United States Court of Texas; Hon. William H. Upton, Judge of the Superior Court of Washington, and Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, of New York City, as lawyers not now in practice. Among those now in active practice, we recognize the names of many of the most eminent lawyers in this country, e. g.: Judge Henry E. Howland, Hon. William M. Everts, Hon. George P. Andrews, Hon. Daniel H. Chamberlain, Burton N. Harrison, Joseph F. Randolph, Hon. William C. Whitney and Ernest G. Stedman of New York City; Hon. Wilson Bissell, of Buffalo; Edward G. and Henry B. Mason and Chester M. Dawes of Chicago; Hon. Asa French and Samuel C. Darling, of Boston; Hon. Gardner Lathrop, of Kansas City; William S. Kerruish, of Cleveland; T. DeWitt Cuyler and Ferree Brinton, of Philadelphia, and Hon. Charles E. Vanderburgh, of Minneapolis, together with many ex-judges, ex-congressman and ex-senators. This directory will be specially valuable to lawyers who frequently are obliged to send legal matters away to other States and cities and wish to employ college men and thus insure the best service. The price of this directory is 50 cents.
