until his removal to Lawrence, Kan. He remained in this place for twenty-three years, during which time his work was mostly miscellaneous writing for the "Church Union," studying, lecturing and preaching. His taste for botany led to a careful study of this subject and to his appointment in 1868, of State Botanist of Kansas, which position he held until 1892. For some years Prof. Carruth has been recognized as the highest authority on the flora of Kansas.

COLONEL WILLIAM NORRIS, '40.

Col. William Norris died at his home, "Brookland," in Baltimore County, Maryland, on Tuesday, Dec. 29. His death was due to a stroke of apoplexy, and he was apparently in perfect health up to the time of his very sudden attack.

Colonel Norris was born in Baltimore, December 6, 1820, and entered Yale with the class of '40. After his graduation he went to New Orleans and practiced law. He afterwards went to San Francisco and continued his law practice, but he caught the gold fever in '49 and spent some time among the gold fields. He was soon afterwards appointed Judge Advocate of the North Pacific Squadron of the United States Navy. In 1861, while Judge Advocate, he visited Valparaiso, Chili, and while there he met and married Miss Ellen Lisie Hobson, daughter of Mr. George G. Hobson, the American Consul at that point. Colonel Norris fought in the war on the Confederate side, and was one of the best known officers in that army. At the close of the war he was offered a high position in the Egyptian army, but declined the commission. He retired to his ancestral house, "Brookland," near Reisters-town, Baltimore County, where he remained until his death. He was one of the most respected citizens of the community.

Mrs. Norris and four children, Miss S. F. Norris, Miss Sarita Norris, Mr. Jefferson Norris and Mr. W. Caterby Norris survive him.

JAMES HEDDEN TRUMBULL, '48.

Dr. James H. Trumbull, '48, died November 12, 1896, at Iquique, South America.

Dr. Trumbull was born in March, 1828, in Elizabethtown, N. J., and was the son of John M. Trumbull, who was a student at Yale, but did not graduate. He entered the Sophomore class in September, 1845, and graduated in 1848. After graduating Dr. Trumbull studied medicine in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, and was assistant physician in the Orphan Asylum, Randall's Island, New York, from 1849 to 1852. In 1852 he went to Valparaiso, Chile, and began the practice of medicine. A short time after Dr. Trumbull removed to Talcahuano, Chili, where he married Miss Eulogia, daughter of Richard Lindsay, in June, 1859.

He had four sons and one daughter, Richard L., John Heyward, Albert, Lincoln, and Harriet Eliza. Richard L. and John H. were graduates of the Sheffield Scientific School, class of 1881, and Richard was distinguished as the representative in this country of the Congressional party during the revolution in Chile five years ago. His brilliant speech at the Alumni dinner here, is well remembered by all who heard it and attracted attention throughout the country.

Dr. Trumbull was a brother of Mrs. George I. Brush and Miss Trumbull of this city. He attained a high rank in his profession, which he practiced with great success in Talcahuano and Concepcion, where he resided for more than forty years.

GEORGE LYNDE CATLIN, '60.

Mr. George Lynde Catlin, '60, ex-United States Consul to Zurich, whose death on December 14th was announced in the last issue of the Weekly, was born on Staten Island, February 13th, 1840. He was graduated from Yale in 1860. After leaving College he enlisted, like many other Yale graduates of his time, in the Union army and went to the front with the Fifth New York Volunteers. He was afterwards with the 101st New York Regiment. He was made a lieutenant during his service in the army.

He became an editorial writer for the "Commercial Advertiser" in which paper he also conducted a personal column. Later he received his first appointment in the consular service. He went to La Rochelle in 1878 and remained there until 1880. Later he was stationed at Stuttgart, Bavaria, and from there went as Consul to Zurich, Switzerland. He filled the latter position until a year ago when he was relieved by the Cleveland administration. This closed a record of seventeen years in the consular service.

Mr. Catlin was the author of a book entitled "Bietigheim" which was published in New York anonymously. It was the story of a battle fought in Germany at the place of the same name as the book, between allied armies of Italy, France, Great Britain, Spain and Turkey, and the United States, opposed to those of Germany, Russia, and Austria. The book was in the nature of a prophecy. It was shortly after the publication of the book that the Germans recognized the strategic value of this place and put extensive fortifications there. Mr. Catlin also wrote a book of prophetic nature called the "Presidential Campaign of 1896." This was in 1888.

He was recently elected a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, but had not taken the oath owing to ill health. He was also a member of Farragut Post, No. 28, G. A. R., and of Joppa Lodge, F. and A. M. He served as President of the Board of Education in Paterson, N. J., which was his home. Mr. Catlin's death occurred at St. Luke's Hospital, as told before, while he was undergoing an operation. The body was taken to Paterson for burial. Mr. Catlin leaves a widow and two children, George L., and Mrs. Kate DeWolf.

Mr. Catlin was a life long Republican.

The Weekly is indebted to the class secretary for a copy of a letter received from Mr. Catlin previous to his class reunion for 1895.

WILMOT H. GOODALE, EX. '61.

Wilmot H. Goodale, ex-'61, died at his home, Baton Rouge, La., January 2, 1897.

He was the son of Walter and Eliza H. Goodale, and was born at Holliston, Mass., September 19, 1839. He prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Andover, and entered with the class of '61, at the beginning of the Freshman year. Owing to illness he left in the third term of the Sophomore year, and was subsequently engaged in teaching at Betts Academy, Stamford, Conn.

Mr. Goodale, on account of his health, was unable to enlist in the army, but was of great assistance on account of his work in the hospitals and in connection with the Christian Mission.

Since 1863 he has resided at Baton Rouge, La., where he practiced law in partnership with his brother-in-law, Mr. Alvan E. Read, who was for a time a member of the class of 1862. Mr. Goodale was admitted to the bar in April, 1867. In April, 1891, he was elected Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy and Civics in the Louisiana State University. Mr. Goodale was married on May 31, 1866, to Miss Mary E. Read of Baton Rouge, La.

DR. REXFORD R. CARRINGTON, EX. '64.

Dr. R. R. Carrington, ex-'64, died, November 21, 1896 at Colchester, Conn.

He was the son of Ruel and Emeline Carrington, and was born in New Haven on March 13, 1841. He entered college in the class of 1864, but left in his Sophomore year. After leaving
