

NEWS FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

HARVARD.

In response to Captain Dean's call for candidates for the Harvard University nine, forty-one men turned out, including the entire team of last year. These men have now been working steadily in the cage for about three weeks under the supervision of Mr. Keefe, who is to coach the team this season. Batting is practiced every morning by some of the squad, with special attention to bunting and style rather than to hard hitting.

No radical change has been made in the cage work, which consists, as usual, of fielding grounders, quick starting and sliding. The candidates are also taken for good out-door runs and put through gymnasium work, which completes their daily routine.

The Harvard base ball schedule for this season is as follows: April 19, Brockton at Brockton; April 24, Dartmouth at Hanover; May 5, Brown at Cambridge; May 12, University of Virginia at Cambridge; May 15, Princeton at Princeton; May 22, University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; May 26, Amherst at Amherst; May 31, Princeton at Cambridge; June 8, Holy Cross at Worcester; June 12, University of Pennsylvania at Cambridge; June 16, Brown at Providence; June 24, Yale at Cambridge; June 29, Yale at New Haven; July 3, Yale at neutral grounds in case of a tie.

CREW WORK.

For the past ten days the Harvard crews have been able to do very little on the water, save in pair oars, owing to the unusually high tides; and if current reports are well founded, their stroke has fallen off considerably since Mr. Lehmann's departure. The improved physical condition of the men is about the only advantage of indoor training, and it is said that Mr. Lehmann was in doubt whether the improvement in this direction would offset the injury to his stroke. According to Mr. Lehmann's policy, fewer long and hard practice spins will be engaged in this year, and on account of this some of the boating enthusiasts fear that the physical condition of the men will not be such as to stand the strain of a hard race.

The following men were taken to the Harvard University crew training table last Monday: D. M. Goodrich, '98, S. Hollister, '97, A. A. Sprague, '97, C. C. Bull, '98, J. H. Perkins, '98, J. B. Moulton, '98, C. Thompson, '99, J. F. Perkins, '99, E. A. Boardman, '99, E. N. Wrightington, '97.

The Columbia-Harvard debate will take place next Saturday, March 20, at the Carnegie Lyceum, New York. The subject for debate is: "Resolved, That the present method of electing United States Senators is preferable to election by popular vote." The following men will act as judges: Edwin L. Godkin, Dr. William S. Rainsford, and Judge Wheeler H. Peckham. President Seth Low of Columbia University will preside.

PRINCETON.

The Princeton baseball schedule for this season is as follows:

March 31, Rutgers, at Princeton; April 3, Union, at Princeton; April 7, University of Vermont, at Princeton; April 10, Elizabeth, at Elizabeth; April 12, Boston, at Princeton; April 14, New York, at New York; April 16, Baltimore, at Baltimore; April 17, Georgetown University, at Washington; April 19, Georgetown University, at Washington; April 20, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.; April 21, University of North Carolina, at Greensboro, N. C.; April 24, State College, at Princeton; April 28, Lehigh, at South Bethlehem; May 1, Cornell, at Ithaca, N. Y.; May 4, Lawrenceville, at Princeton; May 5, Lehigh, at Princeton; May 8, Brown, at Providence, R. I.; May 10, University of Virginia, at Princeton; May 12, Lafayette, at Easton, Pa.; May 15, Harvard, at Princeton; May 19, Franklin and Marshall, at Princeton; May 22, Georgetown University, at Princeton; May 26, Cornell, at Princeton; May 28, Andover, at Andover; May 29, Harvard, at Cambridge, Mass.; June 2, Brown, at Princeton; June 5, Yale, at New Haven; June 9, Lafayette, at Princeton; June 12, Yale, at Princeton; June 19, Yale, at New York* (*In case of tie).

CORNELL.

Cornell defeated the University of Pennsylvania in the joint debate held at Philadelphia. The subject was: "Resolved, That the United States and the several States should establish courts of compulsory adjustment of disputes between employes and private corporations which possess franchises of a public nature."

Pennsylvania upheld the affirmative side of the question and Cornell held the negative. The debaters were: Albert L. Kramer, Roland S. Morris and Louis McKeehan for Pennsylvania, and Harley N. Crosby, Joshua R. Lewis and Daniel H. Wells for Cornell. The judges were: John E. Parsons and Walter C. Carter of New York, and ex-Attorney General Hensel, of Lancaster, Penn.

The date of the dual athletic meet between the teams of Pennsylvania and Cornell has been fixed for Saturday, May 15th.

The Fayerweather Will.

The Fayerweather will contest was continued Monday before the Court of Appeals at Albany. This court has refused to amend its remittitur directing that the remaining $3,000,000 be divided among the twenty colleges as originally intended by the tenth article of the will.

Winslow Paige of Schenectady, representing Union College, on Monday made a motion before the Court of Appeals, asking that the whole case be reargued before the court.

The court reserved its decision on the motion and, as the WEEKLY went to press, had made no announcement of the course it would pursue. It seems highly improbable, however, that the case will be reargued. This recent decision does not in any way affect Yale, as it was only a confirmation of the decision of the lower court.

Professor Verrill's Discovery.

A. E. Verrill, professor of Zoology in the University, has made an important discovery in regard to fish. He has made investigations with aquaria filled with a large variety of fish, and has come to the conclusion that they are not always the same color at night as during the day and that some of them can change color at will. The investigations were made at night with the aid of a light, which, while sufficiently bright to enable Prof. Verrill to see through the water clearly, was not enough to disturb the fish. Being thoroughly familiar with the color of the fish during the day he could detect any changes at once. Prof. Verrill thinks there is a great deal about the subject which is entirely unknown at present by zoologists.

Decrease in Clergymen Graduated.

The New Haven correspondent of the New York Evening Post has furnished the following statistical comparison of the classes of 1896 and 1871: "Statistics of the occupations of the last graduating class (1896) show that 71 are studying law, 21 are graduate students, 16 studying medicine, 14 in mercantile business, 13 teaching, 6 travelling, 4 in banking, 4 in journalism, and 5 studying theology, while 20 are scattered in other vocations, and 101 have not been heard from. The class graduated with about 275 men, and the small proportion entering the pulpit is a striking illustration of a modern fact in the relation of the profession to Yale graduating classes. Twenty-five years ago the class of 1871, with 104 graduating members, turned out 12 clergymen; the class of 1846, with 83 graduates, 16 clergymen; and the class of 1821 takes us back seventy-five years to the theocratic period of the college and of New England, with 27 clergymen out of a class of 69."

Professor Brush's Vacation.

Prof. G. J. Brush, Director of the Sheffield Scientific School, left New Haven for his annual vacation on Friday, February 19. He sailed for Bermuda on the 20th. He will probably return about April 1.

Mr. Caspar Whitney was married to Miss Adele Chase, of Chicago, on Wednesday, March 3.

The Medical Journal.

The March number of the Medical Journal has just appeared. The contents are as follows: "Treatment of Epilepsy," by Dr. Joseph Collins; "The Falling of the Hair," by Dr. R. A. McDonnell; "Some Considerations of the Comparative Therapeutic Value of Active and Passive Exercise," by Dr. Jay W. Seaver; "Burning of Sugar in the Body," by Prof. Graham Lusk. There are also the usual Hospital and Clinic Notes; Medical Society Reports; reports on Medical Progress; Book Reviews and Alumni Notes.
