BASEBALL GAMES.

University and Freshmen Both Defeated This Week.

The second base ball game of the season was played at the Field, Wednesday, April 7, against the Wesleyan nine. It looked like a close victory for Yale in the early part of the game, but in the eighth inning Wesleyan scored four runs, which put them in the lead. The final score was 4 to 3. De Forest, Wallace and Fincke did the most effective work for Yale. The pitching of Wallace was very steady and his form good. No runs were made while he was in the box, and only one hit scored. Feary went into pitch in the seventh inning. He gave two men bases on balls in the eighth inning, and two singles and a two-bagger brought in the four runs requisite to Wesleyan's victory. The score:

Time of game, one hour and forty minutes.

YALE, 3; NEW YORK LEAGUE, 11. Yale was defeated in New York on Saturday, April 10, in the third game of the season, by the score of 11 to 3. The weather was chilly and the field in poor condition, but the University team played a sharp game throughout, in spite of the discouraging outcome of the first inning, in which the League team piled up eight runs. The game was watched by a large number of spectators. The batting of the team was very good, Letton especially making a good record. Fearey and Wear also played well for Yale. Each team changed pitchers two times. For Yale, Wallace pitched the first inning, but was hit very freely, and was succeeded in the second by Fearey, who gave place in the seventh to F. Hecker. The score:

Hecker 1; struck out, by Doheny 2, by Sullivan 2, by Clarke 3, by Fearey 4; double play, Hamlin, Letton and Fincke; passed balls, G. Hecker 2, DeForest 1, Wilson 1. Time, two hours and ten minutes. YALE, 1900, 8; EDGEWOODS, 15.

The Freshman base ball team opened the season at the Field on Saturday by playing a game with the Edgewood team. The game was won by Edgewood with the score of 15 to 8, and was an interesting one throughout. The Freshmen fielded well, but were somewhat weak in batting. Both Dunn and Dunleary showed lack of practice, and between them gave ten bases on balls. The best work for Yale was done by Crawford and Newcomb. The Freshmen batted as follows: Norton and Ferguson, 2b.; Phillips, lf.; Seeley, s.s.; Russell and McBride, 1b.; Lyon, cf.; Crawford, 3b.; Lamb, rf.; Hutchinson, rf.; Newcomb and Sullivan, c.; Dunn and Dunleary, p.

Bequests to the Library.

The Sloane legacy which came to Yale by reversion after the second marriage of Mrs. Thomas C. Sloane of New York, has been voted to the Library to be held as a Library fund. One hundred and sixty thousand dollars of it has been received, and the Library will receive $25,000 or $30,000 more, the remainder of the legacy. A bequest of $1,000 has also been received by the Library from the estate of Anna Chittenden, of Guilford, a sister of Simeon D. Chittenden, of Brooklyn, by whom the Chittenden Library was built.

(Continued from fifth page.) for this particular race, and by racing against scratch crews in the later stages. "It must be remembered too that in this respect the crews of other American Universities have no advantage over ours. "Individual criticism at this early period of practice is hardly fair. I may, say, however, that Stroke Perkins has shown very steady improvement, his best points being steadiness, regularity and length. He is well backed up by Goodrich, who has a very long reach and does not fear to use it. Thomson, at 6, has an easy style and generally rows fairly well with stroke, though he does not always hold his stroke out long enough in the water. "J. H. Perkins, at 5, is a much-improved man, sits up better at the finish and uses his great strength far more to the advantage of the crew. The same may be said of 4, Sprague, who in the Fall rowed in a very cramped and ungainly style, though he undoubtedly worked. He has now acquired much greater freedom of movement. His chief fault is a heaviness of the hands at full reach, which often causes him to be late in beginning. "With regard to the rest, I must content myself with noting the very great strides made by Wrightington at bow." J. Weston Allen.

Divinity School Catalogue.

The Divinity School Catalogue appeared last week. The only new name on the faculty is that of Rev. Benjamin W. Bacon, D. D., Instructor in New Testament Criticism and Interpretation. The special lecturers are announced for the next year. President William J. Tucker, D. D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, is the Lyman Beecher lecturer. His subject will be announced later. Prof. John Bascom, D. D., LL.D., of Williams College, will lecture on "The Recast of Faith." Rev. Charles C. Tiffany, D. D., Archdeacon of New York, will lecture on a subject to be announced later. Rev. George W. Knox, D. D. of Rye, N. Y., will speak on "The Influence of Eastern Thought Upon Western Theology." The Lyman Beecher lecturer for 1898-99 will be Prof. George Adam Smith, D. D., LL.D., of Glasgow. The total number of students enrolled in the department is 100, a decrease of five from last year.

Whist Match Won by Harvard.

The third annual whist match with Harvard took place Saturday evening, April 10, at Cambridge, in the Theta Delta Chi house. The Yale team was defeated by the score of 40 to 37, the best showing yet made in whist. The contest was interesting from start to finish. The better team work and the more extended experience of the Harvard six was clearly apparent in the first four or five boards as the score plainly demonstrates, as at the end of the first six series of eight boards the totals were 30 to 16 in Harvard's favor. From this on a decided stand was taken by the Yale men and by steady, splendid whist, coupled with a little weakening on Harvard's part, Yale gained 13 points.
