

YALE GOLFERS WIN.

Victory in First Intercollegiate Tournament.

The Intercollegiate Golf Association held its first regular tournament on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week at the Ardsley Casino, on the Hudson above Dobbs' Ferry. The contests consisted of two events, one for the individual golf championship of the colleges, the other a team championship. The former was played on Wednesday, being a scratch, medal play. Twenty-two contestants entered, Louis P. Byard, Jr., of Princeton, won, covering the round eighteen holes in ninety-one strokes. Roderick Terry, Jr., Yale '98, and W. Bayard Cutting, Jr., of Harvard, each covered the course in ninety-two. In this contest, all of the six Yale men competing were numbered among the first nine.

The four competing colleges in the team championship contest were Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Princeton. The Yale team consisted of: Roderick Terry, Jr., '98; W. Rossiter Betts, '98; Craig Colgate, '97S.; Walter B. Smith, '99; S. Albert Smith, '99, and John Reid, Jr., '99. Counting was by holes, not by strokes, as on the previous day. Yale won an easy victory from Princeton, scoring thirty-five holes to four. Columbia lost to Harvard, fifty-four to nothing. Yale and Harvard played the final match on Friday, Yale winning by a score of twenty-four holes to four. Yale's work was consistent throughout, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., being the only Harvard man to score for his team. On this occasion Roderick Terry, Jr., '98, Yale's captain, established a new amateur record for the eighteen holes, doing the course in eighty-four strokes. This is two less than the previous best record, and seven strokes better than L. P. Byard's winning score on Wednesday, which gave him the individual intercollegiate championship. The greens, however, were in much better condition and the weather much more favorable.

The credit of the contest is largely due to the Greens Committee of the Ardsley Casino, through whose efforts the Intercollegiate Golf Association was organized in New York, last January. The prizes are the gift of the Ardsley Casino Club. The Ardsley Cup for the team match is in the form of a Grecian urn, nineteen inches high, and will become the property of the college first winning three tournaments. Each member of the Yale team received as a souvenir, a miniature reproduction, in solid silver, of the Cup, three inches in height and suitably engraved.

Yale and the Intercollegiate.

Very general satisfaction is felt over the manner in which the University Athletic Team has been trained this year. The men have been handled with much care, and have not been over-trained. In the Harvard games the contestants were in excellent physical condition, and it is expected that the whole team will not become too fine by May 29, when the Intercollegiate games are held. As to the outcome of these, it is almost impossible to predict with any certainty. Yale could probably defeat any one of the competing teams in a dual contest, but Pennsylvania may take enough first places with their star men to win the games. These two Colleges are the favorites, and the chances of the cup being brought back to New Haven another year are very good. Still the great victory over Harvard is not considered by any means an indication of a sure victory for the Blue in the approaching contests. The track team, too, is of this opinion and no relaxation in their work is noticed.

New England Tennis Tournament.

The tenth annual tournament for the championship of New England, open to all comers, will be held at the grounds of the New Haven Lawn Club, Whitney Avenue, on Tuesday, May 25, and following days. The New England championship cup is now held by Mr. Arthur E. Foote, '96. The cup will become the property of any one winning it for three years (not necessarily consecutive). The entrance fee is $2 in the singles and $4 in the doubles. Entries must be made to C. P. Dodge, 22 College Street, on or before May 24.

In consideration of the offer made by the University of Pennsylvania to furnish a new cup to be contested for in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, if the place of the tournament were changed from New Haven to Philadelphia, it is thought that this change will be made. The entire vote of the colleges in the Association has not yet been taken, but indications at present point to a tournament at Philadelphia.

BALL NINE PROGRESSES.

Work Grows Steadier—Second Victory Over Brown.

The work of the baseball team for the last week has been most satisfactory. The game with Brown on Saturday at Providence showed that the team were playing well together and put a great deal of snap into their work. Since the Wesleyan game on May 8, A. Goodwin, 1900, has been catching. He is remarkably quick behind the bat, and is capable of holding Greeway. It is expected that M. L. Fearey, '98, will resume playing within a week, as his hand, which was cut in the Wesleyan game, is doing well. B. W. Farnham, '95S., has joined the squad, and has been playing left field. G. Greenway, '98S., has been troubled with malaria during the Spring. He left on Tuesday for Virginia, where he will be for about a week. E. F. Hamlin, M. S., who played second base during the beginning of the season, has been pitching lately, and his work is steady. C. M. Reed, '97, has taken Hamlin's place at second base. The team for the last week has been coached by Dr. Fred Rustin, '95S. The prospects for the Princeton and Harvard games seem very bright at present.

YALE, 6; BROWN, 5.

Yale played against Brown at Providence Saturday, May 15, and won in a close and exciting game by the score of 6 to 5. Up to the seventh inning the game looked very doubtful for Yale, but two runs were then obtained by good batting, and the score tied. The winning run came in the seventh inning. The Yale team played steady and hard in the field, but owe their victory chiefly to Fincke's batting, which consisted of two three-base hits and one two-base hit. Camp's two singles also came at timely moments. Greenway pitched a very effective game, allowing only five hits, and was well supported by Goodwin behind the bat. The fielding of Camp and Reed deserves special mention, and Keator made a remarkable catch of Phillips' long fly in the fourth inning.

Record Inter-appointment Games.

The Record has continued the custom established two years ago of arranging a series of interappointment base ball games. Already the preliminary round of the tournament has been completed. Some of the games have been quite close, although loosely played, and attracted considerable interest and caused abundant amusement. There are ten teams in all and the championship will be decided as in a tournament, each team, as soon as defeated, withdrawing from the contest.
