Harvard Foot Ball.

hibition on the Yale Field. A good deal is expected of one of Lawrenceville guards of last year, named Cadwalader. An indefinite report has it that the incoming class will bring several other promising candidates for the line. More can be written about this when more is actually known about it.

Yale's season opens with a game with Wesleyan, October 2d. The Yale-Harvard game is played in Cambridge on November 13th, and the Yale-Princeton game in this city on November 20th. Announcements of the other games will be made as fast as the schedule is prepared by Mr. Twichell, the manager.

Carlisle Indian Eleven.

The foot ball eleven of the Carlisle Indian School has begun its work of the season with great enthusiasm. A very strong team has come together and it is predicted they are capable of faster work than any former aggregation. It is said that the entire training of the team will be in the hands of Mr. Bull, '88 S. and Mr. McCormick, '92.

The following schedule of games has been arranged:

Dickinson at Carlisle on October 2.
Princeton at Princeton on October 16.

Yale at New York on October 23.

Gettysburg at Gettysburg on October 30.

University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia on November 6.

Brown University at Providence on November 13.

University of Illinois at Chicago on November 20.

University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati on November 25.

Great improvements are being made in the athletic field at Wesleyan University. The work is made possible by the generosity of John E. Andrus, '62, of Yonkers, N. Y. The total cost of the improvements will be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Yale's Fall term begins on the thirtieth of September.

While Harvard has lost a number of her regular men, there remains some excellent material from those who played in last year's championship games and also out of the long list of substitutes carried by the management in 1896. Of the old men and substitutes available for the team of '97 are the well-remembered names of Cabot, Moulton, Bouvet, N. Shaw, Doucette, Percy Haughton, Donald, Swain, Lee, Cochran, Dibblee, and Cozzens. One of the excellent men who will join the Harvard squad, when it begins its Fall practice, is Hallowell, who was captain and end rush of the Hopkinson School eleven.

As to coaching, it may be said that this department will be nominally under the charge of Dr. Brooks, although it is expected that Captain Emmons will do the bulk of the coaching. He will be assisted by such men as Cranston, Newell, Lewis, B. Waters and Wrightington. It is also expected that Mr. Malcolm Forbes and Mr. Crane, who have been used for coaches on the Freshman eleven, will be tried on the University this year. They have had unusual success in coaching the younger players.

In the preparations made in Harvard for coaching this year, one hears nothing of Mr. Deland, and the report comes, although it is in no wise official and has not been confirmed by any of Mr. Deland's friends, that he will not be active in developing Harvard's offensive play, as he has been for a number of years. The report was also heard that Mr. Deland may be found contributing to Yale's store of football strategy this fall, but the WEEKLY cannot in any way vouch for the truth of this rumor.

Lieutenant Murray, instructor of military tactics at Yale, has been ordered to Fortress Monroe by the War Department to give examinations for promotion to a captaincy in the First artillery.

Why should an Educated Man be Handicapped?

One certainly is if he goes into business of any kind without knowing what is likely to be required of him. Those who know what is Best in Academic Education can appreciate most keenly the best

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

Education in the minor details of any business may be obtained, it is true, by experience. But don't be educated in this way unless you must. IT'S EXPENSIVE. Employers charge dearly (in reduced wages) for what they teach. The long wait for a fair salary means more than the small outlay and short time required for thorough training in

By the way, Lieutenant-Governor Timothy L. Woodruff, of New York, Yale '79, finished his education with a course at Eastman.

Most of the Students of Yale are preparing to earn their own livelihood—some in professions—others in the BUSINESS WORLD.

Many of these on leaving the University will want to know what will best promote their prospects in a business way. A young man receives the best general education at Yale, but even after graduating he may need to specialize in the vocation he intends to follow. In preparing for a business career it is of course advantageous for him to fit himself adequately for his chosen pursuit.

Many College men have found profit in taking one or more of our special courses. It is therefore not unreasonable to suppose that others would be glad to know of
