YALE-HARVARD SEATS.

Instructions as to How Subscribers May Secure Application Blanks.

All the subscribers to the WEEKLY who desire seats at the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge, November 13, may secure special YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY subscribers' application blanks, by sending name and address and two cents in postage to this office on or before October 23. This is the latest date at which it is possible to secure these blanks.

Send first here for your blank and when you receive it, you will learn, from the instructions printed on it, just how to fill out your order, and forward to the Football Association. The only thing necessary to say about these blanks is, that they are exclusively for Yale graduates who are subscribers to the WEEKLY; that each subscriber is entitled to one application, and that not more than three seats can be obtained on an application.

The fate of the application after it reaches the Yale University Football Association cannot be in any way predicted by us. All that can be said is that the Association's officers will do all that is possible to give WEEKLY subscribers good seats.

Announcement in regard to the Yale-Princeton seats will be made in another issue.

Go to the Yale Club Friday.

On Friday night of this week, the Yale Club will throw open its doors to all graduates of Yale. The management has asked the WEEKLY to extend to them all a very cordial invitation to be present, whether they are members of the new club or not. It looks as if there would be a great Yale gathering at that time.

The Fall Regatta.

The Fall Regatta will take place Saturday afternoon, October 16, on Lake Whitney. An effort is being made to have the scrub crews take part in the Fall Regatta, as they proved so successful an addition at last Sprisg's regatta, but it is doubtful whether sufficient men will come out, so many being now interested in football and track athletics.

In the College Pulpit.

Following is a list of the preachers who will occupy the pulpit for the next five Sundays:

October 17—Rev. Teunis S. Hamlin, D.D., Washington, D. C.

October 24—Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, Hartford.

October 31—Prof. George Harris, Andover, Mass.

November 7—Prof. Ladd, New Haven.

November 14—Rev. Reuen Thomas, D.D., Brookline, Mass.

Instructor Appointed.

The appointment of Dr. Charles S. Ingham as instructor in Latin, to fill Ingham as instructor in Latin, to fill the vacancy caused bv Dr. Guy V. Thompson's death, was announced a short time ago. Dr. Ingham graduated from Yale with the Class of Ninety-One. For two years he taught at Holbrook's Military School and then spent three years in graduate study at Yale, where he was a Foote Fellow. He received the degree of Ph.D. in June, 1806. During his work in the Graduate Department he occupied the position of assistant examiner in the Sheffield Scientific School. He spent the year '96-'97 in Europe. Dr. Ingham's work will be with the Freshman class.

Hugh Chamberlain Greek Prize.

The Hugh Chamberlain Greek prize for the best entrance examination in Greek has been awarded to Edwin Hotchkiss Tuttle of New Haven, who prepared at the Hillhouse High School. Honorable mention is made of Edward Bradford Adams of Westport, Conn., and Alfred Parks Wright of New Haven.

The prize is the income of $1,000 given to the College by the Hon. Daniel H. Chamberlain, '62, in 1886. It is awarded annually.

Glee Club Plans.

Under the management of the Yale Glee Club, the Princeton Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will give a concert in the Hyperion Theatre on Friday evening November 19, which is the night before the Yale-Princeton football game. This is one of the pleasant things which the holding of college contests in a college town has again made possible. The arrangements for putting the tickets on sale are as yet incomplete.

A quartet from the University Glee Club will attend as guests the Sports Night Concert of the McGill University Glee Club, which will take place Friday evening, October 15th. The quartet will be composed as follows: First tenor, G. G. Sshreiber, '98; second tenor, H. E. Butler, '98; first bass, J. W. Wadsworth, '98; second bass, J. C. McLauchlan, '98 or R. A. McGee, '99 S.

A Letter from Dr. Thompson's Pupils.

A meeting of those students who were under Dr. Guy V. Thompson while he taught in the University, was called at Dwight Hall on Wednesday, October 6. A committee of five, composed of the following men, were apposed of the following men, was apto his family: E. C. Streeter, '98; F. Wickes, '98; S. M. Bassett, '98; O. Preston, '99; and W. M. Wheeler, '99.

ings and paintings. Regarded in this saner view, the book under hand is of real value. It avoids the two extremes of a treatment too technical or too "popular," and details the history of the Roman and Germanic arts in a manner both entertaining and instructive. The illustrations are very numerous and unusually good.

"Story of the Cowboy."

Mr. Hough in his "Story of the Cowboy," the third and latest addition to The Story of the West Series (D. Appleton & Co.), has given us a readable and valuable account of the rise of our great cattle industry, and a truly picturesque study of one of the most interesting figures in the history of our own times. The book is full of information, evidently gathered largely from the author's personal experience and association wih men and conditions now past or passing. He writes of the cowboy with sympathetic admiration, which he makes us share. He does not hesitate to state his faults frankly, but he claims for him that he is simply a part of the West and should be studied in connection with his surroundings, since thus only can we come to see him as he actually is. We learn to love him, because, as the author says, "at heart each of us is a barbarian, too, and we long for that past, the itus of whose heredity we can never eliminate from out our blood."

The writer discloses a picturesqueness of phrase and a true humor in expression, as well out of quotation marks as in them, which appeals strongly to one's Americanism and is in pleasing keeping with his theme. In the closing chapter, where he chants the passing of his hero, he rises almost, if not quite, to poetry. "He rides on out into the evening, jaunty, erect, virile, strong. The dust of his riding mingles with the dust of night. We cannot see which is the one or the other. We can only hear the hoof-beat passing boldly and steadily still, but growing fainter, fainter, and more faint."

With such books as this at one's elbow, there is slight excuse for not knowing our great West.

WARWICK JAMES PRICE.

Track Team.

Candidates for positions on the University Track Team were called out last week. The men are training in preparation for the Fall games which will be held at Yale Field on Saturday, October 30. Owing to the short time the men have been working it is hard to get any definite idea of the capabilities of the new men.

Freshman Union.

The following officers of the Freshman Union were elected last week for the Fall term: President, A. H. Richardson; Vice-President, F. G. Mason; Secretary, D. H. Morton; Treasurer, F. M. Wheeler.

"Penikeese" Reproduced.

The comic opera "Penikeese" was given at the Hyperion Theater on Friday and Saturday nights, October 8th and 9th, by a company composed of local players. This opera was first given in 1882 for the benefit of the Yale Navy by Yale men, with a chorus from the Yale Glee Club. The libretto was written by D. H. Buell, '83, and the music composed especially by Mr. T. G. Shepard, director of the Glee Clubs for the last twenty-four years. It was customary to produce each year, for the support of the crew, a minstrel show, play or opera. The piece was not so great a success as it was when first played.
