

FOR EVERY $1,000 OF LIABILITIES

IT CAN SHOW $1,260 OF ASSETS.

THE IMPREGNABLE PRUDENTIAL.

A Live Company for Live Men.

THE PRUDENTIAL,

Offers unusual advantages to policy holders and to its field representatives. Active, energetic men will find an opportunity to secure protection to their families and their homes and an avenue for the employment of their best talents.

PRUDENTIAL POLICIES are EASY to SELL.

They constitute everything that is best in Life Insurance : : : : :

Write for full particulars.

THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA.

Home Office, Newark, N. J.

John F. Dryden, Pres't.

Cleveland Alumni Banquet.

Ninety-five members attended the eighteenth annual banquet of the Yale Alumni Association of Cleveland, which was held at the Stillman House, Cleveland, Dec. 30th.

Prior to the banquet a brief business meeting was held, at which the following officers were elected: President, George H. Ely, '65; Vice-President, H. K. Devereux, '83; Secretary and Treasurer, E. L. Leeds, '88. Satisfactory progress was reported on the scholarship fund to aid worthy students of any Northern Ohio college in taking a post-graduate course at Yale.

For the banquet, the corridors of the Stillman House leading to the dining room, in which it was held, were elaborately decorated with palms and wreaths of laurel. In the dining room the same idea was carried out, so far as the green was concerned. Wreaths of laurel were festooned from the center chandeliers to the corners of the room, and blue burgees of old Yale were much in evidence in all parts of it. The tables were decorated with calla lilies, hyacinths and candelabra.

Mr. Horace Andrews, '83, presided as toastmaster, and after suitable allusions to the enjoyment of the occasion, introduced Prof. Bourne of Yale College, who feelingly referred to the pleasure it afforded him to address so many former students of his institution. He spoke of the many changes which had taken place at Yale since some of those present left their Alma Mater. He also encouraged the Cleveland alumni in their efforts to found a scholarship for worthy students of Adelbert and other Northern Ohio institutions.

Mr. W. S. Karrush, to whom Toastmaster Andrews referred as the oldest graduate present, was the next speaker. He expressed his gratification at being able to be present and told of the former banquets of the association, among them being the first one which was held at the Weddell House, eighteen years ago. He also referred to the influence of Yale as evidenced by the fact that at that first banquet was present a judge of the United States Supreme Court, who said that among his associates were four graduates of that College.

Mr. M. S. Greenough, whom Mr. Andrews introduced as President of the Harvard Alumni Association, was the next speaker. He spoke of the pleasant relations of Yale and Harvard on the athletic field, and predicted that in the future the influence of the two great institutions would be in favor of some needed reforms in the present method of conducting some sports, particularly football.

Toastmaster Andrews then introduced the President-elect of the Association, Mr. George H. Ely, '65, whom he said had once succeeded in securing an adjournment of the legislature to enable him to be present at an annual banquet. Mr. Ely spoke of the banquet as the most enthusiastic gathering of the alumni which he had ever attended, and referred to certain innovations which the Yale alumni of Cincinnati introduced at their last annual meeting, and which he promised, should they be adopted by the local association, to preside over to the best of his ability.

Mr. Malcolm McBride, a member of the Yale football team of the past season, was the last speaker called upon before the banquet took on a strictly informal nature. He told how the triumphs of Yale on the gridiron were accomplished, and awarded the praise for them to the effective work of the Yale coaches.

After that the members of the Association enjoyed a medley of stories, songs and experiences. Many old favorites were sung or related, all contributing to this feature of the evening. The honored guests of the evening were thirty students of Yale, at present home on vacations, who were seated at the center tables.

Physical Directors Meet.

A meeting of physical directors of a number of the leading universities and colleges of the United States was held in New York City on Dec. 31st. The meeting was to form an association to discuss strength tests and methods of holding them.

A constitution and by-laws were adopted. The chief stipulations of these are that no man shall be a member of the association unless he is a physical director or trainer in a college, and he must, besides, be a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Physical Education. The following officers were elected:

President, Dr. Seaver, of Yale; Vice-President, Dr. Linehart, Ohio State University; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. Watson Savage, Columbia. The above named officers and Dr. Sargent, Harvard, and Professor Cann, New York University, will constitute the council.

During the afternoon Dr. Sargent made a report in the reading of a paper on "Strength Tests." He is chairman of a committee to create a standard method of strength tests, and the meeting will approve or modify the suggested standard. A paper on "Terminology" was also read by Dr. Anderson, of Yale.

Samuel Holmes Dead.

Samuel Holmes, the founder of the Holmes Scholarships at Yale, died at Montclair, N. J., Dec. 9th, aged 73 years. He was born at Waterbury, Conn., where the greater part of his life was spent.

Mr. Holmes founded the scholarships which bears his name, some years ago. They consist of one each in the four classes in the College and go to worthy applicants from the towns of Waterbury, Wolcott, Prospect and Middlebury. The amount of the scholarship is the income of one thousand dollars per annum.

Mr. Holmes also gave $25,000 to found a professorship of Hebrew Languages and Literature in the Yale Divinity School.

For many years Mr. Holmes was Treasurer of the American College Society, and later became its Vice-President. He was a delegate to the international Congregational Council held in London in 1891. He was a deacon and trustee of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York and was one of the founders of the Congregational Church in Montclair, N. J.

"Outing" for January.

Outing for January is the holiday number. The contents are as follows: "Bells of the Season," (poem) by C. Turner; "Holly," by Justine E. Ingersoll; "Canadian Winter Pastimes," by Geo. W. Orton; "Knights of the Lance in the South," by Hanson Hess; "Rabbits and Rabbiting," by Ed. W. Sandys; "Philistines on the Nile," by Emma P. Tilford; "Baby Mine," by Geo. J. Leovy; "Sport in Jamaica," by L. C. Shirley; "Tarpon Fishing in Florida," by O. P. Hay; "Wheeling in North Georgia," by Helen F. Huntington; "Ice-Yachting Up to Date," by H. P. Ashley; "Jack Frost Through the Camera," by Dr. Jno. Nicol; "A New Year's Day Ski Run," by R. W. Jackson; "Ice Hockey," by J. P. Paret, and the usual editorials, poems, and records.

Decennial Record of Eighty-Seven.

The Decennial Record of the Class of Eighty-Seven has just appeared. Mr. George E. Hill of Bridgeport is the Secretary. The Record consists of about one hundred pages, giving a list of the class addresses which is complete, with the exception of those of C. W. Holly and Rev. A. J. Arn, which were unknown; a complete biographical sketch of each man and a history of the movements of the class last Commencement, the latter illustrated by a number of snap-shots, a very pleasing feature.

The New Exchangeable Policy

OF THE . . .
Phoenix Mutual Life . . .
Insurance Co.,
of Hartford, Conn.

Provides insurance for life at a low premium, with guaranteed Cash, Paid-up, Loan and Extended Insurance Values. And at the same time the policy can be changed a few years later to a Limited Premium Life or Endowment Policy without losing advantage of the premiums already paid, or having to pay a higher premium on account of advanced years.

For sample policies, terms, etc., address the Home Office.

About a Yale Paper

It is the aim of the Yale Weekly to give the news and the views of all Yale—to tell about it, to illustrate it, to comment on it, and to co-operate with all who are working for it. It seeks to cover the entire field, Graduate and Undergraduate, Academic, Scientific and Professional.

With the co-operation of Yale men everywhere, it has succeeded in so far commending itself to its constituency as to be able to say now that it comes under the eye of a majority of the entire Yale family.

If you are a graduate and are not familiar with the paper, you are asked to give it a trial.

Undergraduates are reading it more and more each year as a supplement to their regular journals.

The subscription price is $2.50 per year. The office is at Room 6, White Hall. The post office address is Yale Alumni Weekly, New Haven, Conn.