

Harrisburg, Pa., Ass'n Formed.

The first annual banquet of the Yale alumni of Harrisburg, Penn., was held on Friday evening, March 25th, at the Harrisburg Club house. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a Yale alumni association, which was done directly after the banquet by the election of officers and appointment of committees. It is the intention of the Association to include in its territory so much of Central and Southern Pennsylvania as does not already belong to one of the several associations in the State.

The dining room and tables were elaborately decorated. In conspicuous places were the football pennants presented to Vance McCormick, '93 S., and W. O. Hickok, and the baseball pennants of Charles B. McConkey, '88. There were also pictures of the teams and the Campus, and the several cups won by W. O. Hickok for shot-putting and hammer-throwing.

The presence of the Glee Club quartette contributed largely to the pleasure of the evening. Professor Andrew W. Phillips, '73 S., was a guest and was given a warm welcome. Of the thirty-four alumni that reside in Harrisburg, there were but four absentees.

James I. Chamberlin, '73, presided at the banquet and the following toasts were responded to: "The University," by Professor Andrew Phillips, '73 S.; "Politics," by B. M. Nead, '70; "Yale Men," by Levi B. Alricks; "Ourselves," by Casper S. Bigler; "Yale Spirit," by Charles B. McConkey, '88.

Those present in addition to the speakers were: Lyman D. Gilbert, '65; J. F. Seiler, '54; H. L. Orth; C. L. Bailey; W. McCormick, '87; D. C. Haldeman, '93; H. B. McCormick, '92; W. K. Meyers, '91 L. S.; M. M. Lemer, '89; L. S. Hart, '91; H. B. Bashore, '86; J. McCormick, '87; R. A. Hickok, '97 S.; G. W. Reily, '92 S.; J. B. Bailey, '89 S.; Vance McCormick, '93 S.; E. Bailey, '81 S.; W. O. Hickok, '3d, '95 S.; R. C. Haldeman; D. M. Dull; D. McCormick, '90; J. G. Ewing, '89; N. P. Hench.

These officers were elected by the Association: President, J. F. Seiler, '54; First Vice-President, B. M. Nead, '70; Second Vice-President, James I. Chamberlin, '73; Secretary and Treasurer, D. C. Haldeman, '93. The President was empowered to appoint an Executive Committee of five.

The Ninety Reunion.

An informal reunion of the members of the Class of Yale, Eighteen-Ninety, academic, was held Friday evening, March 25th, at the Yale Club, 17 East 26th street, New York City. The following men were present: Messrs. James R. Barbour, Thomas F. Bayard, Jr., Roger S. Baldwin, Amasa D. Chaffee, Howard D. Collins, Howard E. Crall, Andrew G. Dickinson, Jr., Hamilton H. Durand Charles Dussler, John D. Farnham, Bert Hanson, Lewis S. Haslam, Roland Holt, Yale Kneeland, James Locke, W. Chittenden Lusk, Frank Sherman Meara, Henry Opdyke, Willard Parker, Jr., Herbert Parsons, Richard T. Percy, Nathan Todd Porter, Jr., Leonard C. Sanford, David Sharps, Henry Leo Scheuerman, Charles A. Sheldon, John H. Sherwood, Percy Hamilton Stewart, Evarts Tracy, William White, Jr., and Lewis B. Woodruff. Total 31.

After a light repast those assembled adjourned to the sitting room of the Club where, seated around a round table, the remainder of the evening was spent in reminiscence and songs. Sheldon presided over the meeting and Bayard acted as chorister. Informal remarks were made by every man present. The meeting broke up after singing the national anthem. The affair was very enjoyable and was due to the efforts of the following committee: Messrs. Bayard, Opdyke, Parsons, Haslam and Parker. The class voted to make such meetings a regular feature hereafter.

Sophomore Greek Reading.

A departure from the regular work in the Sophomore Greek course was made on Monday, March 28, when some members of the first divisions, assisted by Professors Perrin and Reynolds, gave a reading of the "Oedipus Tyrannus" of Sophocles in the Classical Club's room in Phelps Hall. The dramatis personae of the play were taken by the following men, who translated in turn the Greek into English: "Tiresias," T. W. Swan; "Creon," R. C. Peck; "Iocasta," W. B. Stoskopf; "The Priest," S. B. Morton; "The Messenger," C. A. Kellogg; "The Theban Shepherd," W. S. Coffin;

"Exangelos," G. N. Whittlesey; "Oedipus," Prof Perrin and the Chorus, Prof. Reynolds. The rendering was in every way successful and the attention of those present was held for an hour and three-quarters without a break. It is the hope of the Greek Department that another year the play can be read in the original Greek and later in costume.

The men who took part in the reading on Monday evening, will be excused from the regular annual exam. in the "Oedipus Tyrannus" next June.

To CLASS SUPPER COMMITTEES.

In looking for a place for roomy quarters, for a well served, well prepared banquet, you will not make a mistake in inquiring of MOSELEY'S NEW HAVEN HOUSE. We have been paying rather particular attention of late to spreads, and the experience of those who have attended banquets at the hotel has been very pleasant.

The rooms are so spacious and the ceilings so high that the smoke does not bother even very sensitive eyes and the air remains wholesome. One feels a lot better the next day.

The house has been very much improved of late and it is indeed a comfortable place now. If you want to spend a few days of spring in a beautiful New England and University town, you will enjoy life at
