Inspiration and Prosperity.

There is a great deal of truth in the quaint saying of that old divine who told us that, "Prosperity is a hen which likes to lay where there is a nest egg." All of us are seeking prosperity, and inspiration is what most of us need to find it. Any hen will tell you by her actions that a nest egg is only an inspiration after all: she knows it is china.

There are some men who have never saved anything, and who come at length to that hopeless pass in which they never expect to save anything. Once they have grown so to feel and instantly all definite effort ceases. But fortunately, for the good of the world, this party is not as numerous as the opposition—the men who awaken to find themselves possessed of a little surplus, who feel more pleasure than surprise in the discovery, and who straightway proceed to repeat those processes which produced that pleasure, only to find increased enjoyment as their savings grow. In such cases as these the relish for business is freshened, industry and enterprise are stimulated, prudence and economy are cultivated, and the man himself is on high road to prosperity.

Resolve, then, to have a nest egg. Put a little pressure upon yourself and circumstances to produce it. Where there is a will, there is always a way. If you are wise, you will seek assistance from everything that can help you, and if you are observing you will find just such help within easy reach in The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Invest as soon as possible in one of its policies. The agent of the Company, with whom you may talk of your present conditions and future needs, will be able to advise you as to which one of the great company's many contracts is best suited to fulfill those needs. Once you are enrolled among the thousands who march under the flag of The Mutual, you will have found the best sort of nest egg in your premium receipt. As from year to year it is duplicated, not only will you be pleased with that amount certainly saved, but you will also be inspired to new efforts and enterprises which will lead to other and yet greater savings, until at last you will have made your prosperity an accomplished fact.
