In the same year he was appointed a First Lieutenant in the 18th U. S. Infantry and was promoted to a Captaincy in 1863. During the Civil War he was twice brevetted, Captain and Major, for gallant and meritorious services and was wounded at the battle of Mill Spring, Ky. Since the war he has been in continuous service, for the most part on the western plains. In 1883 he was made Major of the 8th Infantry; in 1888, Lieutenant Colonel of the 7th, and in 1892, Colonel of the 25th. He was in command of the escort which accompanied Prof. O. C. Marsh of Yale on some of his scientific explorations in the West. Some "barrack-room Kipling" has composed the following regimental ballad:
"We've known him in times of peace,
And when in times of trouble
Have eyes and swords together flashed,
We felt we knew him double.
"He rides to danger with his men,
A fearless form before them;
And that's the reason why, perhaps,
Those very men adore him.
"If bullets sing and rifles ring,
May no mischance avert
Just praise from one—Mar's own true son,
Gallant Andy Burt."
