

THE YALE ENTRIES

For the Intercollegiate Games—
Twenty-Two Colleges Will Be Represented.

The Annual Intercollegiate Track and Field Games will take place to-morrow and Saturday at Berkeley Oval. The only marked change from the two preceding meets will be that the bicycle events will this year be held at Berkeley Oval on the same days with the track and field events, and not a week later at the Manhattan Beach Track.

The entry list this year is unusually large although no western universities will be represented. The colleges which will send delegations are Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell, University of Pennsylvania, Amherst, Williams, Bowdoin, Wesleyan, Georgetown University, New York University, Boston University, Johns Hopkins, Stevens Institute, Fordham, College of the City of New York, Rutgers, Lehigh, Swarthmore, Trinity and Haverford.

The preliminary heats in the various events will be run off to-morrow afternoon, and on Saturday the semi-finals and finals will take place. The University of Pennsylvania seems to have a very good chance of winning the championship again this year, but Yale should at least get second place.

The list of events, together with the men who will represent Yale in each, is here given.

Yale, 22—Columbia, 1.

Columbia was beaten at the Field on Thursday, May 19, in a slow and uninteresting game. Columbia's pitchers were extremely wild and the fielding of the entire team was ragged throughout. Yale played, with a single exception, an errorless game, but was unable to put much snap in her work owing to the one-sided nature of the match.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Yale...	0	1	3	3	5	0	0	10	0	—22
Colum.	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	—1

Batteries: Yale, Hecker and Sullivan; Columbia, Fishel, Gebbard, Fitch and Hill.

Yale, 19—Orange A. C., 15.

Yale played a strong game against the Orange Athletic Club team last Saturday, at East Orange, and won through heavy and opportune hitting. Fearey pitched the first seven innings, but was very wild, allowing thirteen bases on balls. After Orange had taken the lead in the seventh inning on three bases on balls followed by four hits, Captain Greenway went into the box for the first time this year and finished the game in creditable form. Wadsworth and Camp were unable to play on account of illness, but their places were well filled by Wear and Bronson.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Yale...	1	2	4	0	5	0	0	2	5	—19
Orange.	0	4	1	2	0	0	6	2	0	—15

Batteries: Yale, Fearey, Greenway and Sullivan; Orange A. C., Westervelt, Vorhis and O'Neil.

The Freshmen Win.

The Freshman Nine defeated the Princeton Freshmen at the Field on Saturday, in a well-contested match. Both teams fielded well, but Yale's superiority at the bat won the game. Stickney's pitching was a feature of Yale's play, and held down the opposing batters to two hits and allowed no bases on balls.

The annual Spring golf tournament, will be held on Memorial Day and the two days following. The winner of the tournament will be considered the champion of the University, and will be awarded the trophy which was offered last October, to be contested for every Spring and Fall.

The Yale Mission.

The Yale Mission held its last meeting in the old building on East street on May 1st. The Committee in charge of the work had been planning a change for some time. This change was necessitated by the poor location and the damaged condition of the building.

The Mission, now ten years old, has always had an interest for undergraduates and alumni alike, because of the intensely practical nature of the work, and because it has exerted such a powerful influence upon the 50 or more men who have had a share in the work each year.

The Committee has started a similar work for one month in a rented room on Grand avenue, under the leadership of H. Bingham, '98. The new work is by way of experiment, to discover whether this location is suitable for a permanent home for the Yale Mission.

The last two years have made it evident to those in charge, that Yale needs for the best advancement of her religious interests a well equipped plant for city mission work, a permanent home around which to center its growing interests.

The Committee, therefore, after many months of preparation, have decided upon a site, and are now making a final revision of plans with the intention of asking the undergraduates and alumni to unite in the erection of a suitable building. They feel that the undertaking is, indeed, a big one, especially at this time, but in view of the very great importance of this work to the Christian life of Yale, it seems justifiable to ask the University to unite in putting up this building.

Each year this work turns out a chairman, a committee of a dozen or more, and a working force of about fifty men, whose lives have been deepened and strengthened by coming in close contact with the outcast classes of the city. It helps scores of such men to lead sober and industrious lives while also showing a number of real conversions. Every year strengthens the belief in its necessity to the Young Men's Christian Association work in the College.

Many great obstacles, however, can only be overcome by placing the work on a permanent basis in its own home. The Committee plan to conduct the work the year round, placing a competent superintendent in charge for the Summer months. A thoroughgoing boy's work is to be instituted and an up-to-date gospel mission conducted. The lodging house will probably be discontinued.

Already enough money is in sight to purchase the lot and it is confidently hoped that before the year closes it will have been possible to start the work upon the new building of the Yale Mission.

"Yale Review" Contents.

The current issue of the Yale Review has the following comments: European Opinion on the War; Financial Possibilities and Perils; The Constitutionality of Labor Legislation in the United States.

There are also the following articles: "The Cuban Revolt and the Constitution," by E. B. Whitney, formerly Assistant Attorney-General; "Ancient and Modern Hindu Gilds," by Professor E. W. of these offices is beyond the reach of Knox. If the graduate is not near an agent, he can always write to E. M. Knox, Fifth Avenue Hotel Building, New York City, and get any hat he wants—that is, provided he wants a good one.

It is quite worth the while looking at the special styles of straw hats this season. Try any of our agencies or the mails.

Senior Fence Repaired.

Several long needed repairs have recently been made on the Senior Fence. An entirely new top rail has taken the place of the old one, only small portions of which remained, and a number of new posts have been set up. The Fence is now complete for its entire length.
