

YALE ALUMN WEEKLY

VOL. VIII. No. 3.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1898.

PRICE TEN CENTS.

FACULTY CHANGES.

Sketches of the Men Affected by Corporation Action.

The May and June meetings of the Yale Corporation made changes in the personnel of the Faculty and ordered many promotions. The changes went into effect with the opening of the present term, and a sketch is herewith presented of each of the men who have thus joined, or taken new positions in, the teaching staff.

PROFESSOR J. C. SCHWAB.

Assistant Professor J. C. Schwab, who was advanced to a full professorship in Political Economy, graduated from Yale in 1886. The following year he spent in studying Political Economy under Professors Hadley and Sumner in the Graduate Department and in 1887 entered the University of Berlin, where he spent a year studying under Professors Wagner and Schmoller. The next year he also spent in Germany at the University of Göttingen, where he took courses with Professors Cohn and Lexis. In 1889 he was awarded the degree of Ph.D. by Göttingen in Economics and Philosophy, his thesis being on the history of the property tax in New York. During the years 1889-90 he pursued extensive studies among the libraries of New York. In 1890-91 he lectured in Yale University and was Assistant to Professor Sumner. For the next two years he was Instructor in Political Economy at Yale and the following year was advanced to an Assistant Professorship.

Professor Schwab has been an editor of the Yale Review since 1892. He has written articles on the history of the Confederate States in the Political Science Quarterly, and Yale Review, and is the author of an article on "Finance" in Johnson's Cyclopedia. "The Revolutionary History of Fort Number Eight" is from Professor Schwab's pen. Professor Schwab is a member of the American Economic Association, the British Economic Association, the Reform Club and the Century Club.

PROFESSOR IRVING FISHER.

Assistant Professor Irving Fisher was advanced to a full professorship in Political Science. Professor Fisher was graduated from Yale in the Class of Eighty-Eight, and was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1891. From 1890 to 1893 Mr. Fisher was an Instructor in the University. He was an Assistant Professor in Mathematics in 1893, and became Assistant Professor in Political Economy in 1895. The year 1893-1894 he spent in study in Berlin and Paris. Professor Fisher is the author of "Mathematical Investigations in the Theory of Value and Prices" and "Appreciation and Interest." He has also written various articles on Bimetallism, Capital, Statistics and Mathematical Economics. In 1893 he edited the "Yale Bibliographies" and in 1897 published a bibliography of Mathematical Economics; he is author of an "Introduction of Calculus," and with Professor Phillips wrote "Elements of Geometry." He is one of the editors of the Yale Review.

PROFESSOR E. H. SNEATH.

Assistant Professor E. H. Sneath was promoted to a full professorship. Professor Sneath was graduated from Lebanon Valley College, Pa., in 1881, and from the Yale Divinity School in 1884. In 1889 he received his Doctor's Degree from Yale. He taught three years at Wesleyan University in Philosophy and then went to Miss Porter's School, Farmington, where he remained teaching in the same subject until 1891, when he accepted a call to Yale, having previously lectured here in the Graduate School. Professor Sneath is the organizer and editor of "The Series of Modern

PROFESSOR J. C. SCHWAB.

Philosophers," a work in eight volumes, also of the Ethical Series in six volumes. He is the author of the "Philosophy of Reid," and of the "Ethics of Hobbes," and is one of the contributors to the "Memorial Volume" of President Porter.

CHARLES SEARS BALDWIN, PH.D.

Dr. Charles Sears Baldwin, who has been appointed Assistant Professor of Rhetoric, prepared for College in Plainfield, New Jersey, at the school of Mr. John Leal, a Yale graduate. From there he went to Columbia College, where he took honors in Greek and received a fellowship in English. After graduation, he taught English Composition at Columbia for several years and English Literature both at Barnard College, the women's department of Columbia University, and for two years at Mrs. Reed's school. In the Fall of 1895 he came to Yale in the capacity of Instructor in Rhetoric, which position he has held up to the present time.

Dr. Baldwin received his Master's and his Doctor's degree at Columbia. He has published the following books: "Inflections and Syntax of Malory's Morte d'Arthur," Ginn and Co.; "Specimens of Prose Description," Henry Holt and Co.; an edition of DeQuincey's "Revolt of the Tartars," for Longman's English Classic Series; and "The Expository Paragraph and Sentence," Longmans, Green & Co.; several reviews of text-books. In addition he has had articles in the "Education Review" and in "Modern Language Notes."

DR. PHILIP E. FROWNING.

Dr. Philip E. Frowning, who was promoted to be Assistant Professor in Chemistry, is a graduate of Yale, Class of Eighty-Nine. On graduation he was appointed Assistant in Chemistry. He filled that position, at the same time taking higher courses in Chemistry, and in 1892 received the degree of Ph.D., continuing as Assistant during the year 1892-93. In July of the latter year he went to Germany and spent the next year studying at the Ludwig Maximilian University in Munich. On his return to New Haven in September, 1894, he took up the duties of Instructor in Chemistry, receiving in June, 1895, a reappointment for a period of three years. He has done a great deal of work along the line of original research, and a number of papers on Analytical Chemistry from his pen have been published in German and American journals of science. His "Lecture Notes on Qualitative Analysis" with Professor F. A. Gooch has recently appeared.

CHARLTON M. LEWIS.

Charlton M. Lewis, recently appointed to an Assistant Professorship in English, has been an Instructor in the Academic Department for the past three years. Prof. Lewis was graduated from Yale in 1886 and spent the following year in post graduate work in Economics and History. In 1887 he entered the Columbia Law School, where he took a degree two years later. Professor Lewis practiced law in New York City until the Fall of 1894, when he returned to Yale and enrolled himself as a graduate student in English Literature. The following year he was made an instructor in the English Department, which position he held until his recent appointment. Professor Lewis took a doctor's degree at the University Commencement last Spring.

CHARLES S. INGHAM.

Dr. Charles S. Ingham, B.A., who was made Tutor in Latin, was graduated from Yale with the Class of Ninety-One. For two years he taught at Holbrook's Military School and then for three years he studied in the Graduate Department at Yale, where he was Foote Fellow. Dr. Ingham received the degree of Ph.D. in June, 1896. During his work in the Graduate School he was Assistant Examiner in the Sheffield Scientific

PROFESSOR IRVING FISHER.

School. Dr. Ingham spent the year of 1896-1897 in Europe. During the year just passed he has been Instructor in Latin in the University, teaching one of the divisions of the Freshman class.

HOLLON A. FARR.

Mr. Hollon A. Farr, B.A., 1896, who was appointed Tutor in German, received the Scott Hurtt Fellowship at his graduation, which has enabled him to spend the last two years in study at the Universities of Jena and Berlin.

GUSTAV A. ANDREEN.

Mr. Gustav A. Andreen, B.A. 1894, who was made an Instructor in the Scandinavian Languages and given a two years' leave of absence for study abroad, was graduated from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., in 1881. After graduation he taught in the College for three years, after which he was called to Bethany College, Kansas. He was Vice-President of that College and taught both Latin and German. He left Bethany College in 1894 and entered the Senior class in Yale. Since graduation Mr. Andreen has been studying in the Graduate Department and has been teaching German. Mr. Andreen will go abroad about the last of July and will reach Christiania in time to attend the Scandinavian Philological Convention held there. He will spend the first year in Norway and Sweden, studying at the University of Upsala. His second year's work will be done for the most part in Denmark, although he intends to spend some time in Germany. Mr. Andreen will return in time to take charge of his classes at the beginning of the college year in 1900.

THOMAS C. STEARNS.

Mr. Thomas C. Stearns, B.A., graduated from Yale in 1886. For six years he taught in Connecticut and then came back to Yale and entered the Graduate Department, where he studied Philosophy. Part of the time he was in the Graduate School, he taught the Academic Classes in Greek. During the last two years Mr. Stearns has been studying Early Greek Philosophy in the University of Berlin under Professor Diehls, who is acknowledged to be the highest authority on this subject. Mr. Stearns is an accomplished scholar in both Greek and Philosophy, and his appointment as Instructor in Ancient Philosophy in the Graduate School and the College is well deserved.

FRANK HERBERT CHASE.

Frank Herbert Chase, who has been made Tutor in English, was born in Portland, Maine, in 1870. He prepared for College at the High School at Haverhill, Mass., and graduated from Yale with the Class of Ninety-Four, of which he was Valedictorian. He also received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Yale in 1896. After graduation he taught at the Cheshire Academy until May, 1897, when he went abroad, spending fifteen months in travel and in study, especially at Berlin and in the great libraries of England.

Mr. Chase's special line of study is Old English syntax, in which he has gained a remarkable reputation for a man of his years. He will have charge of the Freshman classes in English this Fall, and will in addition give an elective course in the History of the English Language.

GEORGE D. KELLOGG.

Dr. George D. Kellogg, B.A. 1895, who was appointed an Instructor in Latin, was prepared for College at the St. Louis High School, St. Louis, Mo. He was valedictorian of his Class at graduation. During the three years since graduation Mr. Kellogg has been studying in the Graduate Department. During the year 1896-1897 he took the Sophomore classes in Latin of the late Guy V. Thompson, and the Freshman divisions of Dr. Ingersoll during his absence. Dr. Kellogg received the degree of Ph.D. in 1898.

[Continued on 24th page.]