the marriage service, assisted by her brother, the Rev. Frederick D. Lobdell of Philadelphia. The Bishop of the Diocese, the Rt. Rev. William D. Walker, pronounced the benediction. Miss Margaret Lobdell was bride's maid and Mr. James McCormick Mitchell best man.

'95—A sketch of one of the saddest instances in the return of Company L of the Second Massachusetts Regiment to their home in Greenfield, is entitled "The Tragedy of the Home Coming." It is written by Edward Branch Lyman. It has deservedly found a great many readers, not only in Greenfield and in other parts of Massachusetts, but generally throughout the country, where now its story is particularly appreciated. It is the story of the vain search of a sister for a brother on the soldier train which brought back the home company.

Obituary.

REV. GEORGE C. LUCAS, '43.

The death of Rev. George Clark Lucas occurred August 9, at his home, No. 230 Central Park South, New York City, aged 83 years.

Mr. Lucas was born in the County of Sussex, England. He came to this country at the age of sixteen, and was graduated from Yale in 1843. Three years later he was graduated from the Yale Theological Seminary, having been licensed to preach in the Presbyterian ministry the previous year. He held pastorates at the Second Presbyterian Church, Lansingbury, N. Y., the Central Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., and the Allen Street Presbyterian Church of New York. His last charge was at Woodbridge, N. J., which he held until 1874, when he went abroad and remained several years. After his return he held no settled charge. At the time of his death he was President of the Board of Trustees of the Barron Library at Woodbridge, N. J. He had been in failing health for some time before his death. He leaves a wife, three daughters, and a son, Albert P. Lucas.

ANDREW JUDSON WHITE, '46 M.S.

The death of Andrew Judson White occurred at London, England, on September 23d, after a long illness. The remains were brought home and interred at Woodlawn on October 8th. Mr. White was born at Canterbury, Conn., on May 9th, 1824. He entered Yale College with the Class of Forty-Six, but did not complete the Academic Course, taking up instead the course at the Yale Medical School, where he graduated in 1846. Mr. White was for many years engaged in the wholesale drug business in New York City and in London, although of late years he has not been actively engaged in business enterprises. As a capitalist he was connected with many ventures, and he was for many years President of the Yost Typewriter Company, until the leading typewriting companies became merged into the Union Typewriter Company, in which latter company he was a Director at the time of his death. In November, 1894, he presented Yale University with the dormitory which has been named after him.

He always took a great interest in matters pertaining to Yale and Yale life. Besides the widow he leaves a son, Raymond S. White, who graduated at Yale in the Class of Ninety-Five.

REV. WILLIAM D. LOVE, D.D., '47 T.S.

Rev. William DeLoss Love, D.D., died at St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 5.

Dr. Love was born at Barre, Orleans County, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1819. He graduated from Hamilton College in 1843, and studied Theology at Andover and the Yale Divinity School, graduating from the latter institution in 1847.

He entered the ministry as pastor of the Howe Street Church of New Haven, and subsequently held pastorates in Berlin, Conn., Milwaukee, Wis., East Saginaw, Mich., South Hadley, Mass., and New York City.

During the Civil War Dr. Love labored zealously in the work of the Christian Commission. Before the War he was an ardent abolitionist. He was also an author of many volumes and pamphlets, his first book being a "Child's History of Slavery." Later, while a pastor in Wisconsin, he wrote the "History of Wisconsin in the War of the Rebellion."

DR. JOSEPH B. ELLIOTT, '53 M.S.

Dr. Joseph B. Elliott died on Sunday July 3, at his home, 493 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn. At the time of his death Dr. Elliott was one of the leading homeopathic physicians in Brooklyn. He was born in Sharon, Conn. in 1821 and was a descendant of John Elliott, the first missionary to the Indians in that settlement. Directly after his graduation from the Yale Medical College in 1853 he took charge of the State Insane Asylum at Trenton, N. J., and after serving a few years in that capacity he moved to Brooklyn, where he continued in active practice almost to the close of his life.

He was consulting physician of the Homeopathic Hospital and of the Brooklyn Nursery. He was also Warden of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah. The interment was at Sharon.

LIEUT. RODMOND V. BEACH, '87.

Lieut. Rodmond V. Beach, of New Haven, died from typhoid fever on Thursday, September 29, at Ponce, Porto Rico.

At the beginning of the war Lieut. Beach was appointed Second Lieutenant in the First United States Engineers, and soon afterwards received a commission as First Lieutenant and was selected by Colonel Griffing as his Adjutant. His regiment went into camp at Peekskill, N. Y., and on August 9 was ordered to Porto Rico. Last Wednesday letters were received from the officers of the regiment telling of Lieutenant Beach's illness and on the following morning word was received of his death. The body will reach New Haven the latter part of this week and will be buried with military honors.

Lieut. Beach, son of John S. Beach, was born in 1865, and graduated from Yale in 1887 and the Law School in 1889. While in college and after graduating he took a great interest in lawn tennis, and became one of the well known players of the country. In 1891 he enlisted in the New Haven Grays and in the following year he was promoted to be First Lieutenant and Paymaster of the Second Regiment. In July, 1893, he was made Battalion Adjutant. He held the office of Secretary of the Second Regiment Officers' Association for some time. About a year ago Lieutenant Beach rendered valuable voluntary service to Captain Wells in the reorganization of the Sarsfield Guards. Mr. Beach was a member of the Quinipack Club and the Lawn Club and an original member of the Graduates Club.

For the Fall Shooting.

Is your "Parker" all ready for it? Presumably it is, if it was carefully put away at the end of the last season. But perhaps you want something different this year, as to calibre, weight, or design. Shooters know all about the general qualities of the gun. A catalogue gives all details.

Mr. Beach leaves two brothers, John K. Beach, '77, a lawyer, and Francis G. Beach, '83, Captain of Battery C, Heavy Artillery, C. V., now of the Third Connecticut Volunteers, at Camp Meade, Penn., and one sister, Rebecca D. Beach.

HENRY E. MCDERMOTT, '96.

Henry E. McDermott died at the hospital in New Haven, Conn., on Monday, October 3. He had been in ill health for a year or more from the effects of an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. McDermott graduated from Yale in the Class of Ninety-Six, and immediately afterwards was appointed Assistant to Professor Chittenden in Physiological Chemistry. The following year he entered the Yale Medical School and last Spring began his work as Assistant Instructor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Last Commencement Yale gave him the degree of M.A.

Owing to continuing poor health he was obliged to give up his work and was advised to rest at his home for a year. This preyed upon his mind and doubtless hastened the end.

FOOTBALL

As the American Colleges play

it, is distinctly an American game. The Englishmen

who see it are amazed at the development of Rugby

by United States collegians.

In all the advances, intricacies and elaborations of the sport, the football specialists have found one firm in the United States always ready to meet, and even often to anticipate their needs. This is one notable example of the up-to-date-
