It is published in book form by Messrs. Lamson, Wolfe & Co. of Boston, (E. R. Lamson, '93).

'91—James Eugene Farmer's historical novel "The Grenadier—A Story of the Empire," has been published recently by Dodd, Mead & Co. The following is quoted concerning it from the New York Commercial Advertiser, under date of Oct. 22; "Among recent attempts at a French historical novel, the best which has come under our notice is a tale of the Empire, bearing the simple title of The Grenadier. The author, Mr. Farmer, who is already favorably known to the public for his admirable volume of "Essays on French History," has succeeded at his first attempt in producing a highly creditable and entertaining story. As a historical novel it has the right ring to it; from the intimate details of the daily life of the period to the manoeuvres of the battle of Waterloo it is obvious that the writer has a firm grip upon his subject. The figure of Napoleon is made to live, and we see the "man of destiny" with all his faults and foibles. A brief glimpse behind the scenes along similar lines has been attempted already by Conan Doyle in his delightful "Brigadier Gérard"; but the triumph of Mr. Farmer's portrait lies in the fact that after showing Napoleon as more or less of a poseur, and betraying his pet weaknesses, he still makes us feel his greatness and share in the enthusiasm of his soldiers."

THE AETNA ENDOWMENTS

BETTER THAN GOVERNMENT BONDS.

BECAUSE:

They have paid, and are paying, a better rate of interest.

They are fully paid for in a definite number of years.

Their value is fixed and does not fluctuate.

They are non-taxable and are protected by legislative supervision.

In case of death, even during the first year, no further payment is required, but the Endowment becomes immediately payable, the same as a life policy.

They are sold in sums of from $1,000 to $25,000, and are within the reach of all.

Their payment is guaranteed by the Aetna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn. assets over $47,500,000.

They provide for early life, middle life, advanced life, and death.

They are indisputable, non-forfeiting, and absolutely safe.

Write for particulars.
