The leading feature of this contract is that every option and benefit offered by it is absolutely guaranteed. There are no estimates as to future problematical results, but every mode of settlement is plainly stated in the policy; so that the holder knows from the start what he will receive at the end of twenty years, and also what the value of the contract will be to his estate in case of prior death, or to himself should he not complete the requisite number of premium payments.

SMITH WON FINALS.

A Technical Report of His Match at Golf with Reid.

The finals in the University Championship were played on Thursday, Oct. 20, between John Reid, Jr., '99, and Walter B. Smith, '99. The day was a good one for golf and a crowd of over one hundred people followed the match. The contest was close throughout, Smith finally winning by 2 up and 1 to play. The game in detail was as follows:

Hole 1—Reid had the honor and drove a good ball. Smith sliced, but playing the odd, was on the green. Reid on his approach was short, but played onto the green on his next shot. Smith playing the like, put down a long put, winning the hole.

Hole 2—Smith pulled his drive but Reid drove straight. Both men were on the green in two and halved the hole in 4.

Hole 3—Both men got long balls but they were sliced into the road on the right. Reid playing the odd was short while Smith on the like went too far. He got onto the green in four and Reid missing his put, the hole was halved in 5.

Hole 4—Here both men got long straight balls. Reid on his next shot played his brassie and got away a good ball. Smith pulled with his driving mashie. Both were to the left of the green in three and on in four, halving the hole in 6.

Hole 5—Smith used his iron, driving over the green into the long grass. Reid played a good shot with his iron. Smith was not up on his second and, playing two more was on the edge of the green. Reid was on in two and, as Smith missed his put, Reid won the hole in 4.

Hole 6—Both made good drives here and were on the green in two. Taking two more to hole, they halved in 4.

Hole 7—Both drove well, Smith pulling a trifle. On his second Reid brassied short of the green. Smith playing the like with his driving mashie was hole high but to the left. Both were on the edge of the green on their next and the hole was halved in 5.

Hole 8—Reid drove into the road, Smith driving just short of the green. Reid in getting out hit the fence. Playing two more, he was not on the green. Smith on his second was within good putting distance. On his fourth, Reid tried to hole, but failing, gave up the hole.

Hole 9—Smith pulled a little, while Reid drove a good straight ball. Reid on the odd partially missed his brassie, just getting over the bunker. Smith played over the trees with his iron. Both men made good approaches to the green and halved the hole in 5.

Hole 10—Starting the second round, both made fine drives, but their approach shots were weak. Reid on his third played past the hole. Smith on the like was short of the hole and playing the odd, he partially stymied Reid. The hole was halved in 5.

Hole 11—Both men drove well and were on the green in two. Smith holed a long put for a three and as Reid failed to put out, he won the hole in 3-4.

Hole 12—Smith drove short and Reid followed to almost the same place. Both made poor approaches. Reid on the odd overran the green. Smith on the like was dead and Reid on his approach almost holed. Smith putted out winning the hole, 4-5.

Hole 13—Smith toed his drive badly, while Reid pulled. On his second, Reid got away a good ball, but it hit the trees, bounding into the open. Smith on the like played into the open. Playing the odd, Smith sliced into the road with his brassie. Reid on the like, with his driving mashie, got into the bunker in front of the green. Smith played over the green with his niblick. Reid played back into the bunker but on his next shot was well over. The hole was halved in 7.

Hole 14—Both made good iron shots and Reid almost holed his approach put. The hole was halved in 3.

Hole 15—Smith topped his drive while Reid drove well. Smith played his iron onto the green. Reid on the like was on the green and won the hole in 4, as Smith putted too far on his third and failed to hole on his next.

Hole 16—Both drove well and made good second shots. Reid was on the green in 3, but Smith fozzled his approach. His next was also a bad shot and Reid won the hole 5-6.

Hole 17—Reid had the honor and drove into the road. Smith drove short. On his second Reid overran the green while Smith was on in two. On his third Reid was on the edge of the green, but failing to put out on his next, lost the hole and the match, as Smith was down in 4.

Hole 18—The bye was played out, Reid winning in 5-6.
