THE IMPREGNABLE PRUDENTIAL.

$400,000

One of the largest transactions ever consummated in Life Insurance in the United States, and undoubtedly the largest credited to the State of New Jersey, was closed last week by

THE PRUDENTIAL

It was in the shape of an issuance of $400,000 of partnership insurance in favor of four members of the firm of Hahne and Co., proprietors of the Newark department store. The first annual premium of over $13,000 has just been paid, and the policies have been delivered.

Partnership insurance, by which each partner is insured for the benefit of the firm, is growing more popular among business men every day; and this movement on the part of Hahne & Company is a striking example of how an up-to-date firm can protect vast interests in the event of their being assailed by death. FROM THE YALE PLATOON.

Acknowledgment to Yale Men—Disposition of the Medicine Chest.

To the Editor of YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY:

Sir:—The Yale men of Light Battery A, First Connecticut Artillery, U. S. V., on this day of their mustering out, wish through the columns of the ALUMNI WEEKLY to express their great appreciation of the gifts from time to time made to them by the alumni.

The platoon in particular wishes to thank Yale for the medicine chest. While we were not called into active service, nevertheless the chest was of great and constant value to us.

The Platoon wishes to make the following disposition of the chest: the box itself and the stretcher to be placed in the Yale Trophy Room, where they may remain a reminder of the loyalty of the graduates. All the medicine and bandages in the chest to be given to the Yale Infirmary. The instruments to be given to George Buist, '96, Hospital Steward, in recognition of the ceaseless and successful vigilance he exercised for the preservation of a healthy camp.

The thirty-two members of the classes of '98 and '98 S., conscious of the honor done them, wish to thank the President and Faculty of the University for the degrees conferred upon them last June, while they were in camp.

(Signed), YALE PLATOON.

A $400,000 Insurance Policy.

The partnership insurance for four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000) in favor of the members of the firm of Hahne & Company, proprietors of the Newark Department store, is referred to elsewhere in the advertising columns. The Messrs. Hahne & Kellner, who take this policy, have just paid their first annual premium of over thirteen thousand ($13,000) dollars on it. Before deciding in what Company they would take insurance, they secured figures from the leading life insurance companies in the United States. No policies so completely satisfied them as those of the Prudential, which they concluded were as safe and certain of payment as a government bond. The Prudential officials naturally point to the transaction with a great deal of pride, as demonstrating the faith of business men and men of affairs in the company.—Adv.
