YALE PRESIDENTS.

Graduates Who Manage Universities and Colleges.

At the present time there are nearly thirty colleges and universities in the United States which have as their presidents men who are regular graduates of Yale.

President Dwight is the seventh successive graduate to be elected to the Presidency of Yale. The names of the seven with their years of graduation are: Naphthali Daggett, 1748; Ezra Stiles, 1746; Timothy Dwight, 1769; Jeremiah Day, 1795; Theodore Dwight Woolsey, 1820; Noah Porter, 1831; Timothy Dwight, 1849.

Rev. Edward Dafydd Morris, D.D., LL.D., is the President of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, O. He was a classmate of President Dwight, graduating from the Academic Department in 1849.

Until within a few months, when he resigned, Pres. Martin Kellogg, M.A., LL.D., B.A., Yale '50, was head of the University of California, Berkeley, Cal. This University was founded in 1868, and has now an enrollment of about 2,500 students.

Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman, M.A., '52, has been President of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., since the opening of the University in 1876.

William Preston Johnston, LL.D., Yale '52, a classmate of President Gilman, was in like manner the first President of Tulane University, New Orleans, La. This University began under its present title in 1883, though its earliest department dates from 1834. Instruction is now given to over 2,000 students.

Dr. Cyrus Northrop, '57, is the President of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. During the fourteen years of his Presidency the university has grown from three colleges to eight, and from less than three hundred students to nearly three thousand.

Rev. Augustus Hopkins Strong, D.D., LL.D., who presides over the Rochester Theological Seminary, Rochester, N. Y., was a classmate of President Northrop and graduated from Yale College in 1857.

Rev. James Marshall, D.D., a third member of the Class of Fifty-Seven, was President of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, up to the time of his death on September 11, 1896.

Rev. Samuel Henry Lee, M.A., President of the French-American College, Springfield, Mass., graduated from the Academic Department with the Class of Fifty-Eight.

Rev. Horace Bumstead, D.D., is one of three College Presidents from the Class of Sixty-Three. He presides over Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga. This University was opened in 1869, and now has a membership of about three hundred students.

George Washington Atherton, M.A., LL.D., who was graduated here in 1863, is the President of Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pa.

Rev. David Brainerd Perry, M.A., a member of Yale Sixty-Three, is President of Doane College, Crete, Neb. He also graduated from the Yale Divinity School in 1867.

Rev. Marshall Richard Gaines, M.A., B.A. Yale '65, accepted the Presidency of Tillotson College, Austin Texas, in 1896. He was also a member of the Class of Seventy-Four Theological School.

Rev. William Gardiner Sperry, D.D., B.A. Yale '69, presides over Olivet College, Olivet, Mich. This College dates from 1859, and has an enrollment of about 250 students.

Austin Scott, M.A., Ph.D., LL.D., another member of the Class of Sixty-Nine, is the President of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J. Rutgers is one of the oldest American colleges, having been established by royal charter in 1770.

Rev. James Gore King McClure, D.D., B.A. Yale '70, is the President of Lake Forest University, Lake Forest, Ill., which received its charter in 1857, and has now about two hundred students enrolled.

Rev. Hollis Burke Frissell, '74, became President of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., in 1893. The Institute was founded in 1868, and now numbers about 1,000 students.

Rev. George Edwin MacLean, M.A., Ph.D., B.A. Yale '74, is Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb. This University has been founded seventeen years, and has a membership at present of about 1,700.

William Rainley Harper, D.D., LL.D., Ph.D. Yale '75, was elected President of Chicago University, Chicago, Ill., at its organization in 1890. Over two thousand students are now receiving instruction at this University.

Rev. Edward Dwight Eaton, D.D., LL.D., B.A. Yale '75 T.S., is the President of Beloit College, Beloit, Wisc. This college dates from 1843 and has about five hundred students enrolled.

Webster Merrifield, M.A., who graduated from the Academic Department in 1877, is head of the University of North Dakota, Grand Fork, N. D. This university started in 1883, and comprises about three hundred students.

William Everett Waters, Ph.D., B.A., Yale '78, fills the Presidency of Wells College, Aurora, N. Y. Wells College has been incorporated thirty years.

Charles Herbert Levermore, Ph.D., B.A. Yale '79, is President of Adelphi College, which was organized at Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1896.

Rev. Stephen Beasley Linnard Penrose, B.A. Yale '90, is President of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash. This college dates from 1836.

Boothe Colwell Davis, Ph.D., B.D. Yale '93, was elected President of Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., on June 18, 1895. This university celebrated its sixtieth anniversary in 1896.

Clinton Lockhart, M.A., Ph.D., Yale '94, left the Presidency of Columbia College, Columbia, Ky., in 1895, to become President of Christian University, Canton, Mo. He took a three year's course in the Graduate Department of Yale.

To add the names of other Yale graduates who have served as College Presidents would increase this list to over one hundred. The following institutions received their first presidents from Yale: Princeton, Columbia, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, University of Chicago, Williams, Dartmouth, Hamilton, Kenyon, Beloit, Wabash, Tulane, Illinois, College of Mississippi, and the Universities of Georgia, Missouri, Wisconsin, California and Mississippi.

"Yale: Her Campus, Class Rooms and Athletics."

A book on Yale, written by Mr. Camp, '80, and Mr. Welch, '89, is soon coming from the press of Messrs. L. C. Page & Co. of Boston. The title of the book has recently been changed so as to be more accurately descriptive of the contents of the volume. The plan of the book developed very considerably while it was in process of construction. The book will be entitled "Yale: Her Campus, Classrooms

From one end of the land to the other, wherever men who demand the best are found, Fownes' Gloves are the recognized standard of merit and fashion. They are best for dress, for the street, for riding, driving, or golfing — for all occasions and all purposes. To wear them is to be correctly gloved. All leading haberdashers sell them.

and Athletics." The sub-title describes the divisions of the book in the order in which they are prepared. Yale as a place of work is considered from the standpoint of a place one must live in order to work in, next as purely a place of intellectual work and lastly as a place for athletic recreation.

The last division of the book,—that of athletics, is, of course, written by Mr. Camp. This consists of a general chapter on Yale's principle of athletic management, followed by a history of all the events of each of the main branches of athletics in which Yale has been engaged. These historical sketches are supplemented by tables giving scores of games, times of races and other details from the first down to the present day.

In describing the social side of Yale a brief sketch is given of the general experiences of one who goes through, as an example, the Academic course. After that, the different institutions of Yale are taken up by a series of sketches. These include the chapter on the Prom, on the society system, on graduate organization, on Battell Chapel, on Dwight Hall, etc., etc.

In describing Yale as a place to work, the different departments are sketched from the standpoint of their systems of instruction. The plan is to give in simple and plain language the idea of education in each.

After that, the different divisions of instruction like Philosophy, Political and Social Science, and History are sketched with a view of indicating their particular features, with a brief statement in each case about the principal instructors and their records and methods. The idea is a non-technical survey of the general field of Yale teaching.

In the first and second parts, the historical element is incidental and used only to explain or illustrate or emphasize the present. The raw bones of the history on both Yale's social and intellectual side are given in a series of condensed chronological tables at the end of each section.

Maynard, Merrill and Co. have in press for immediate publication "Yale Verse," a selection of verse from the undergraduate papers of Yale, compiled by Charles Edmund Merrill, Jr.
