FRESHMAN CREW CANDIDATES.

Ninety in Number, but Light in Weight and Inexperienced.

At the call of Captain Frederick W. Allen, of the University Crew, ninety members of the Freshman Class presented themselves at the Gymnasium on Saturday, Jan. 14, to make a trial for the Freshman Crew. This number is a large one and bespeaks a good spirit in the Class, but there are less than a score of these who have ever had experience in a boat. As a whole the squad is a light one, the average weight being about 158 pounds, with but one man over 180 pounds.

After the candidates had registered their names and weights they were set at work in the tanks, each man getting a chance to show what he could do for a few minutes. Afterwards a short run was taken. Daily runs and a few minutes with the oar will be continued until the best material comes to the surface, when the squad will be reduced to easily-handled proportions. Captain Allen believes that though raw and inexperienced now, he sees in the material the making of at least an average crew.

The names and weights of the men who reported follow: G. Abbott, 151; B. J. Phelps, 175; H. P. Rogers, 150; E. I. Low, 156; M. P. Lancaster, 140; O. S. Ackley, 165; R. B. Dresser, 165; K. C. Lost Books Recovered.

It has been found on further investigation by the police, that James Britain Miller, whose stealings of hundreds of books was chronicled in the last WEEKLY, did not confine his thieving entirely to the book stores and libraries. In his possession were found 148 books which had upon their leaves the names of members of the University, undergraduates, graduates and professors. Men as far back as the Class of Ninety-Four had suffered losses of their property according to the names found in the books. The owners in all cases have been notified of the recovery of the books. Miller's case came up on Wednesday, Jan. 18.
