

Miller Did Not Appear.

Rev. James Brittain Miller, a student in the Graduate School, charged with the theft of books, did not appear when his case came up on Tuesday, Jan. 31, and his bonds of $1,800 were at once forfeited. Although a search was begun for him, it is the general opinion that he will keep out of the reach of the law.

There were in all forty-eight counts against Miller, including the burglary of two watches. The penalties outside of the burglaries range all the way from $7 fine and 30 days in jail, to $200 fine and 6 months in jail, and in the aggregate would amount to confinement for 12 or 15 years, if convicted. The penalties for the burglaries would add probably another 5 years.

An account of Miller's stealings were printed in a previous issue of the WEEKLY, but at that time it was not known that his efforts had been so effective. The police discovered in his room in East Divinity in all about 3,800 books, which had been stolen from the bookdealers of the city and private persons. Most of them were identified and returned to their owners.

Senior Prom Committee.

The meeting to elect the Senior Promenade Committee of the Class of Ninety-Nine, was held on Friday, evening, February 3, in Osborn Hall.

Y.

A Student Printing Press.

A new form of student money-making in the shape of a small, but well-equipped printing office, was opened by two Divinity students shortly after the beginning of the Fall term, under the name of the Raven Press. The workshop is at 112 West Divinity, and in a comparatively small room the students have their type cases, well filled with fonts of new and artistic types, and a first-class Golding press of sufficient diameter to accommodate any work which has yet come to them. The business has developed considerably and weekly increases of type are found necessary.

The aim of the Raven Press is to do printing for the professors and students in all literary and commercial lines, besides supplying engraved work on cards and stationery, together with close imitations of the engraved. The largest job yet undertaken by the firm was the printing of a sixteen page pamphlet, entitled "Introduction to the Book of Acts." The typography throughout is very neat. Preparations are being made by the firm to print three other booklets, ranging from 20 to 40 pages in length.

A Swimming Team.

During the past week the formation of a water polo team has been agitated by Mr. Schwarz, the swimming instructor, and it seems probable that a number of interesting matches will be arranged. Teams are now practicing at Harvard and Columbia Universities, and arrangements for matches with them are under consideration. If a sufficiently good team is developed it is intended to enter it in the swimming contests which are held in New York, in the Spring.

The following men together with Mr. Schwarz make up the team which practice daily in the Gymnasium: C. Oglebay, 1900; W. E. Minor, 1900; G. R. Hall, '99 S.; E. W. Farley, 1901 S.; G. M. Smith, 1901; T. H. Hall, Jr., 1900 S.; W. S. Creevey, 1902.

Graduates Club Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Graduates Club will be held February 14th at 9 p. m. at the Club House. The following amendment to the by-laws will then be voted upon: "Any officer of the Army or Navy of the United States, assigned to duty in this State and eligible to membership, shall be eligible as a non-resident member though resident in one of the towns designated in Section 3 of this Article, upon condition of the payment of resident membership dues."

One Won; One Lost.

The first game of the University Basketball team last week was played with the Middletown Y. M. C. A. team on February 3d, and resulted in a victory for the Yale team with a score of 25 to 18. The game was marked by loose playing on both sides, which accounts for the size of the score. Yale scored ten goals before her opponents made a point.

The second game of the week was played on Saturday evening, February 4th, with the Washington Heights Y. M. C. A. team at Washington Heights, New York City. Both teams played strong games in the first half and the score was 8 to 4 against Yale at the end of the half. The score was 10 to 7 in the second half, when Walden made a goal when he was standing, as claimed by the University team, outside the line. The referee ruled against them and after a five-minute argument the game was discontinued and was awarded to the Y. M. C. A. team with the default score of 2 to 0.

Hopkins Grammar Club.

At a meeting of the Hopkins Grammar School Club on Wednesday evening, February 1, the following were elected for next year: President, Ralph G. VanName, '99; Vice-President, Paul N. Dann, '99 S.; Secretary, Ray Morris, 1901; Treasurer, Raynham Townshend, 1900 S.; Executive Committee, C. H. Walker, '99, Chairman; R. Townshend, 1900 S.; R. W. Chandler, 1901. It was decided to hold a smoker in the near future.

The February number of the Illustrated American contains an article on the Yale Art School, with portraits of artists who have studied there.

Machine-Made Oratory.

"The recent attempt of the Sophomores of a Western college to give their orations by talking machines was very laughable. The Professors found out what was in the wind and promptly vetoed it, but not before several rehearsals had been held to demonstrate its feasibility."

The Freshies found it out, too, and invaded one of their trials with pitchers of water which they poured into the horns with dire results. The practicability of the scheme is assured, however, and some day we may hear a commencement conducted entirely by machine talkers."
