NOTICES.

[Alumni Association and Class Secretaries are invited to contribute to this column.]

Ninety-Seven Dinner.

The following notice has been sent to all Ninety-Seven graduates living in New York or vicinity:

"It has been decided to have a Ninety-Seven dinner at the Yale Club, 17 East 26th street, New York City, on Saturday evening, March 11, 1899, at 7.30 o'clock. The Committee wish it especially understood that all Ninety-Seven men are invited to attend, whether or not they have as yet joined the Club. The dinner has been fixed for Saturday evening as being most convenient for the majority of men living in New York, and also in the hope that a number from out of town will be able to be present.

"Owing to the incomplete state of the list of addresses, it is possible that some members of the Class may fail to receive a copy of this notice. The Committee therefore asks everyone who does receive this announcement to do his best personally to see that the news reaches every Ninety-Seven man living within reach of New York.

"The cost of the dinner will be $2 per cover. This is payable in advance. In order to facilitate the work of the Committee, members of the Class are urged to send a prompt reply, together with $2 in case they expect to attend the dinner. Those, who for any reason will be prevented from coming, are asked to acknowledge the receipt of this notice, in order that the Committee may be sure that it has not been lost in the mails. In replying, members of the Class are asked to give their present addresses in full, for the convenience of the Committee or others desiring to call Class meetings in the future.

Address
NINETY-SEVEN DINNER COMMITTEE,
Yale Club, 17 East 26th st.,
New York."

Men who have failed to receive a copy of the above notice are requested to communicate with the Committee at once.

Phi Beta Kappa Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Phi Beta Kappa Society will be held at the Tontine Hotel on Monday evening, March 20, at 7.30. Arrangements have been made so that Graduate members may attend on the payment of the moderate cost per plate and notification of F. H. Morley, 40 Vanderbilt Hall, before Friday, March 10, or G. D. Kellogg of the Graduate Committee at 90 South Middle.

THE BROOKLYN DINNER.

the Colonel escaped getting hit we have never been able to understand.

"I was also with the Colonel a few days afterwards when Gen. Wheeler came up and said, 'Colonel, there is a rumor that Gen. Shafter is thinking of falling back. You may be ordered to withdraw at any time.'

"'Well, Gen. Wheeler,' replied Col. Roosevelt, 'I don't like to anticipate orders. I am not prepared to say whether I'll withdraw my troops or not.' "I was also with the Colonel at Montauk Point when the armistice was declared. 'Dear me,' said Col. Roosevelt, 'that's a great disappointment.'"

Lieut. Greenway's speech closed the dinner. It was attended by about 125 enthusiastic Yale men, among whom were the following: F. D. Tuttle, Victor Barnes, H. J. Haslehurst, L. A.
