abandoning it in 1887. He resumed his pastoral work for a short time in 1887, but ill-health again forced him to discontinue it. In November, 1887, he was made one of the Trustees of a new library at Bucksport, and subsequently was appointed Superintendent and Librarian. This position he held until December 1, 1890, when he resigned his office. Since that date he has had charge of two or three estates, and has been occupied with duties pertaining to a trustee.

President Timothy Dwight writes of his classmate as follows:

"Mr. Skinner was a man of sterling worth, of faithfulness in every service to which he was called, of quiet gentleness in all the relations of life. He had a strong and beautiful character. He was a Christian disciple, whom no one could meet without being impressed with the thought that he was seeing a man who had been with the Master in the communings of his inmost life. He had an honorable and useful career, and won the esteem and regard of all who knew him. His classmates gave him, long since, their friendship, and will give him their kindly remembrance."

GEORGE ROGERS HOWELL, '54.

George Rogers Howell, '54, died of pneumonia, in Albany, N. Y., April 5, 1899. Mr. Howell was a son of Charles and Mary (Rogers) Howell, and was born June 15, 1833, at Southampton, Long Island, which was the first town settled by the English in the State of New York. He was a descendant in the eighth generation of Edward Howell, the leader of the colony.

After graduation he taught for six or seven years, occupying all his spare time in reading and the study of French and German. In the Fall of 1861 he entered Princeton Theological Seminary, where he graduated in May, 1864. After occupying the Presbyterian pulpit in Moscow, N. Y., as stated supply, for a year and a half, he returned in November, 1865, to Southampton, where he delivered the address at the celebration of the 225th anniversary of the settlement of the town, and subsequently prepared a history of it, including the genealogies of the old families, which was published in 1867. A second edition of this work, much enlarged and mostly re-written, was brought out in 1887. In the Spring of 1869 he went to Mt. Morris, Livingston County, N. Y., and became principal of a boy's boarding and day school. In March, 1872, his reputation as a linguist led to his appointment as Assistant Librarian of the New York State Library at Albany, and there he remained until his death. Besides his acquaintance with French and German, he had also a fair knowledge of the Italian, Spanish, Portuguese and Dutch languages. In a literary way he wrote many papers on historical, scientific and philological subjects and read some of them before various learned societies; also edited various works, and published a "Genealogy of the Parsons Family, and several historical pamphlets.

Since 1889 he had been State Archivist. His widow is Mrs. Mary Seymour Howell, a well known leader in the movement for woman's rights.

NOTICES.

[Alumni Association and Class Secretaries are invited to contribute to this column.]

Seventy-Seven Dinner.

The following notice has recently been sent to members of the Academic Class of Seventy-Seven:

NEW YORK CITY, Mar. 27, 1899.

Dear Classmate: You are urgently invited to attend an informal dinner of members of Yale, '77, at the Yale Club, No. 17 East 26th street, Madison Square North, New York City, at seven o'clock on the evening of Friday, April 21, 1899. The price for the dinner will be $2 per plate.

There are a large number of our Classmates in and about the City of New York and within a radius of one hundred and fifty miles therefrom, and there should be a correspondingly large attendance at the dinner. It will doubtless be an occasion of great enjoyment. Evening dress is not essential unless preferred.

This notice is being sent very widely to members of the Class, but some may fail to receive it, so kindly give it circulation. Please send your reply as per enclosed slip, at as early a date as possible, and not later than Thursday noon, April 20th. Do not fail to attend, however, even if you are unable to reply in time.

Fraternally your classmates: John S. Thacher, Secretary; Wm. M. Barnum; Frederick J. Stimson; Frank H. Platt; James P. Davenport; Charles S. Miller; Walter Brooks, and Richard M. Colgate; Self-constituted Committee.

The slip enclosed and referred to in the above notice provides that members of the Class who expect to attend the dinner shall send notice to that effect to C. S. Miller, 150 Nassau street, New York City.

About 25 members of the Class have, prior to April 5th, signified their intention of attending the dinner, and it is expected that a considerable number of additional acceptances will be received.

Ninety-Five.

There will be a Ninety-Five Class dinner Saturday, the 15th inst., at 7 o'clock, at the Yale Club, 17 East 26th st., New York City. All who wish to attend, whether members of the Yale Club or not, should communicate immediately with Ninety-Eight Sheff.

The Secretary is very anxious to complete his list of occupations, addresses, etc., of Ninety-Eight Sheff., and there are still 25 members of the Class from whom he has not heard. He therefore requests these members to send him at their earliest convenience, their addresses, occupations and also any items of interest concerning themselves or other members of the Class. His address is 102 Boston Block, Denver, Col.
J. W. ALSOP, Secretary.

From one end of the land to the other, wherever men who demand the best are found, Fownes' Gloves are the recognized standard of merit and fashion. They are best for dress, for the street, for riding, driving, or golfing—for all occasions and all purposes. To wear them is to be correctly gloved. All leading haberdashers sell them.

Brown Won Chess Match.

A match between the chess clubs of Yale and Brown was played at the Lyman Gymnasium in Providence, April 4 and 5, and resulted in a victory for the Brown team by the score of 9½—6½.

The following men composed the two teams Yale—L. A. Cook, 1900 (Captain); H. Logan, 1900; A. M. Webb, 1901; C. A. Roberts, 1902. Brown—Lester, 1900 (Captain); Tingley, '99; Davis, 1901; Nichols, 1902.

Each player met every member of the opposing team, making a series of sixteen games. Of these, Cook, Yale, won 3½; Lester, Brown, 3; Davis, Brown, 3; Nichols, Brown, 2½; Webb, Yale, 2; Logan, Yale, and Tingley, Brown, 1 each; Roberts, Yale, 0. Total, Brown 9½, Yale 6½.
