Scrub Crew Work.

The class and "scrub" crews which compose the Dunham Boat Club, have now been working regularly for about a month and during the past week have been rowing on the harbor in barges. Shells will be put into use sometime next week. There seems to be no diminution whatever in the interest aroused last year in this phase of rowing, for no less than 12 crews including the Dunham Crew, are in training.

The triangular race, in which it was expected the Dunham Crew would race with the Weld and Newell Eights of Harvard, has been given up because of the failure to obtain the permission of the two Faculties. It is, however, the purpose of the Dunham Club management to invite an outside crew to race at the Spring Regatta, on Lake Whitney, May 20. It is also possible that the Dunham Eight will enter the races held at Harlem on Decoration Day, when the Weld Boat Club Crew will race for the possession of the challenge cup, which it has won for the last two years.

T. D. Hewitt, '99, was recently appointed Crew Captain of the Dunham Boat Club, and the following men are now working under him: W. M. Wheeler, '99; L. Cogswell, '99; G. W. Hubbell, 1900; D. B. Casler, 1900; D. Chappell, 1900; W. E. Minor, 1900; J. A. Keppelman, 1901; J. M. Patterson, 1901; L. A. Gillet, '99 S.; C. B. Waterman, 1901; W. R. Kelley, '99; L. M. Thomas, 1901.

THE CANDIDATES.

The list of the present candidates for the various crews is as follows:

Improvement in the Nine.

As a result of the recent hard and regular practice, steady improvement has marked the work of the University Nine since their return from the South. Especial attention has been paid to the throwing and batting with gratifying results and the men are playing fairly well together, although the final make-up of the team remains unsettled.

Waddell was tried at third base in the New York game, but played last week in left field, supplanting Westcott, and Bronson, third baseman during the Easter trip, returned to his former position. The change seems to have added considerably to the strength of the outfield.

Robertson and Cook have pitched in the last three games and have done fairly good work. Of the two, Robertson appears to be the steadier and has better control. Cook however, has good curves, keeps his head well at critical times and is generally considered a man of greater possibilities.

M. H. Beall, '93 S., assisted Captain deSaulles in the coaching last week.

Yale, 9; Wesleyan, 3.

The Yale-Wesleyan game at Yale Field, on Wednesday of last week, resulted in a victory for Yale by a score of 9 to 3. The Yale team presented a number of changes, deSaulles playing first base, Clark and Waddell in center and left field respectively and Hirsh catcher. Robertson pitched the first six innings, and did very effective work. When the game was well in hand Garvan was substituted. Waddell's work in left was the most gratifying feature of Yale's fielding game. The batting was exceptionally weak, Camp, Bronson and Wallace, however, doing well. Townsend, of Wesleyan, pitched a steady game until the eighth inning, when he weakened and allowed six hits in the last two innings. His support in the field was fair, but the entire Wesleyan team was weak at the bat.

The score follows:

Yale, 18; Lehigh, 4.

Yale defeated Lehigh at Yale Field on Saturday, April 15, in a slow and uninteresting game, the final score standing 18 to 4. Yale's timely batting, Lehigh's erratic fielding and the poor work of her pitchers were responsible for Yale's large score. Cook, who pitched for Yale, though wild at times, except in the seventh inning. Yale's fielding was sharp throughout the game, the work of deSaulles and Quinby being especially good. Bronson of Yale and James of Lehigh led at the bat with three hits each, though both teams batted heavily, Yale securing eleven and Lehigh thirteen hits.

Yale 1902, 20; Betts, 6.

On Wednesday, April 12, the Freshman Baseball Team went to Stamford and defeated the Betts Academy Team by the score of 20 to 6. They showed improvement in fielding and batting, but were slow in base running. Fleming and Johnson led at the bat with three hits each. McKelvey, who pitched for the 1902 team, held the opposing Nine down to five hits, but was wild at times. The Betts men were especially weak in the field, giving poor support to their fairly strong battery.

Interclass Track Games.

The interclass track games will be held at the Yale Field, Saturday, April 22. These games, which are an innovation at Yale, will serve to take the place of the usual handicap games, and with them will begin the final weeding out of the squad in preparation for the Dual Games, which will be held May 13. The object of this new departure in track athletics is to awaken interest in the candidates and to afford a better opportunity to judge of their ability. It is universally agreed that the system instituted this year under Mr. Copland, for training the squad, has been thoroughly beneficial to the team, and that the interest shown by the men in their work has been greater than at any time in recent years.

Besides the regular prizes, which will be offered to the competitors in the Saturday's games, a number of cups have been presented, which will be awarded the winners in the various events. The winning relay team will receive a set of four cups, which has been offered by the Yale News, and the Ninety-Nine Lit. Board will present the three first men in the shot put with similar trophies. Captain Fisher and Bascom Johnson, 1900, have presented cups to be given to the place-men in the broad jump. In addition the numerals of the winning class and the names of the winning relay team will be engraved upon the Cuyler and Charles Bell trophies and numerals will be given to all first place men and to the members of the winning relay team.

It has been decided to postpone until May 3, the two-mile run, for which Mrs. Fisher, the mother of Captain Fisher, has offered a set of cups. With the exception of the omission of this event, the regular Dual Game program will be followed.

Yale Golf Outlook.

The Intercollegiate Golf Match, which was to have been played sometime this Spring between the Yale and Harvard teams, has been given up, owing to the inability of three of the Harvard team to contest, being candidates for the University Baseball Nine. The use of the Cambridge course, where one half of the match was to have been played, has also been made impossible by its subdivision into city lots.

Despite these unfortunate circumstances a most interesting golf season is expected at New Haven. It has been about definitely decided that a match with the All-Philadelphia team will be played Saturday, May 27, while in addition to this, the management is in correspondence with the following teams, with which it is expected matches will be arranged: Fairfield County Club, Brooklawn Golf Club and Oxford Golf Club. The dates of the University tournaments have not yet been settled upon, but it is certain that a handicap tournament will be played sometime during the present month, and the University championship tournament will come about the middle of May.

The fact that the American Champion Tournament is to be held on July 3d, at the Onwentsia County Club course in Lake Forest, makes it impossible for the usual large number of Yale men to enter. W. B. Smith, '99, and J. Reed, Jr., '99, will however, surely compete, and other men may also leave before Commencement to enter.

At the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Golf Association in New York on Wednesday, April 12, the following officers were elected for this year:

President, Chester Griswold, Captain of the Princeton team; Vice-President, G. P. Clark of Harvard; Secretary and Treasurer, T. M. Robertson, Yale 1901. A meeting will be called shortly to draw up a permanent constitution and arrange the details and date of the Intercollegiate tournament.
