YALE CLUB REPORT.

Shows a Healthy Condition of the Organization.

The annual meeting of the Yale Club was held at the house in Madison Square on Friday evening, April 28. After the reading of the report for the fiscal year ending March 31, resolutions of regret at the death of the late Professor O. C. Marsh were passed, followed by a resolution of congratulations to Mr. John Kane, a Yale graduate, now Senator-elect from New Jersey. President Thacher closed the meeting with a few remarks on the good members could do by keeping on the lookout for interesting memorabilia for the club house.

The report shows that there are now 914 members in the Club. The surplus in the treasury April 1, 1899, was $12,465.24, a gain for the year of $3,269.77.

Students Celebrate Dewey Day.

The students took hold of the Dewey Day celebration on Monday in a characteristic and original manner. Preparations had been going on throughout the day for an elaborate parade and the rumor was current that both the Philippine heroes, "Admiral" Dewey and "Gen." Otis, would be presented in the gathering. It was, therefore, no surprise, when the procession started from Osborn Hall, to see "Admiral" (H. M.) Dewey, in the seat of honor in an ancient barouche at the head of the line. "General" (H. G.) Otis was for some reason unable to be present. To navigate the vehicle, which was gaily decked with bunting, required two teamsters, H. H. Tompkins and Mac-Intosh Kellogg, the whole escorted by a squad of revolver sharpshooters. Behind the Admiral's ship came the feature of the parade, a big New Haven watering cart, hired, not stolen as some intimated, on the high barrel of which perched eight or ten Seniors, armed to the teeth with revolvers big and little, with which they kept up a fusillade to keep off Philippino guerillas. After the cart came a number of loaded wagons, and behind the groaning wagons, came five hundred students of the lower classes, doing the Omega Lambda Chi step.

The parade was through the center of the city, past President Dwight's house and to the Campus, where "Admiral" Dewey made a speech, which was so noisily applauded that the stenographer was unable to get verbatim notes. The celebration ended with a gigantic bonfire between Treasury and North.

Two of the judges for the Yale-Harvard debate on May 12th have been chosen. They are Professor Bliss Perry of Princeton and Professor Gardiner of Boston.

EMILY SANFORD PROFESSOR.

mirable lucidity. In general, a fact of much importance, all of Professor Lewis' work, even to the smallest detail of instruction, has been thorough and scholarly. He is a hard worker and in his discharge of duty very exacting of himself and conscientious. His standard of class-room work is high and he has a very general reputation among the students for comparatively low marking. That in spite of this he is so universally liked is not the least of the tributes to his ability and character.

Charlton Miner Lewis was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., March 4, 1866. His father, Charlton T. Lewis, a graduate of Yale in the Class of Fifty-Three, is a prominent lawyer of New York, and a philologist. He is a descendant of an old New England family.

Professor Lewis, while at college, won the Hurlbut Scholarship in Freshman year, took first premiums in English Composition in Sophomore year, was a member of the Chi Delta Theta and Phi Beta Kappa, and was an editor of the Literary Magazine. He was a member of the Junior Society of Psi Upsilon and the Senior Society of Skull and Bones. Upon his graduation in 1886, he spent a year in graduate study of History and Political Science at Yale, then two years at the Columbia Law School, from which he received the degree of LL.D. in 1889. He was at once admitted to the New York Bar, and, in 1890, became connected with the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell of New York City, where he remained until the Fall of 1894, at which time he was called to an instructorship in the University. He took up his work here in September, 1895, after a year of preparatory study in New York City. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Yale in the Summer of 1898, and at the same time was made Assistant Professor.

The Billings fund for the Emily Sanford chair, principal and interest, amounts to date to between $86,000 and $87,000.
