

The University Paper

THE YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY is intended to cover the news of ALL YALE, and is edited from the standpoint of general University interest. It cannot, and does not seek to, take the place of any student publication, but is recommended to all students of the University as a supplement to their undergraduate papers, and as a means of placing themselves in touch with the interests of all Yale, not only as seen by the undergraduates, but also as seen by graduates and by members of the Faculty, and by the members of other Universities.

The subscription price is three dollars, payable in advance. Orders may be sent simply to YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY, New Haven, Conn., or left at the Office, 6 White Hall.

'98—Ernest C. Noyes is an instructor in the Manual Training High School of Indianapolis, Ind.

ex-'98 S.—Philip R. Brooks is employed with the Brooks Lumber Company of Minneapolis, Minn.

'98—P. R. Porter has entered the Harvard Law School. His address is 30 Hastings Hall, Cambridge, Mass.

'98—Lemuel G. Pettee has been engaged as an instructor in the Westminster School at Dobbs Ferry, New York.

'98—W. E. Selin has accepted a position for the coming year as gymnastic instructor in Northwestern Military Academy. His address is Highland Park, Ill.

'99—Stuart Holt is on the Independent.

'99—John B. Adams is at Columbia Law School.

'99 S.—M. T. Townsend is at Columbia Law School.

'99—Arthur S. Hamlin is studying in the New York Law School.

'99—William S. Hannon is studying at the Harvard Law School.

'99—H. G. Otis is in his brother's brokerage office in Cleveland, Ohio.

'99 S.—R. P. Flint has entered the School of Mines of Columbia University.

'99—George Dana Graves began work this year at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

'99 S.—Walter L. Ehrich is taking a course in mining engineering at Stanford University.

'99 S.—H. F. Benjamin is with the Farmers Loan and Trust Company of New York.

'99—G. A. Kernan is studying law in the office of W. & N. E. Kernan in Utica, N. Y.

'90—W. E. S. Griswold and L. Cogswell are studying law at the Harvard Law School.

'99—Charles A. Brayton is with the American Trust Company, bankers, of Cleveland, Ohio.

'99—Merwin C. Harvey has a position in the Cleveland Malleable Iron Works of Cleveland, Ohio.

'99—Henry J. Nichols will pursue a course in the Graduate Department of the University this year.

'99 S.—O. H. Lindenberg is with the M. C. Lilley Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, dealers in military goods.

'99—Carl B. Spitzer has gone into business with his father. His address is: Spitzer Building, Toledo, Ohio.

'99—Marvyn Scudder is now engaged with the N. Y. Security and Trust Co., 46 Wall Street, New York City.

'99—H. R. Shipman and Richard Hooker will remain in Paris, France, until December 1, and will probably not return to the United States until next Summer.

'99—Alfred G. Vanderbilt sailed from Yokohama on September 19th, on his way to New York. His trip around the world has been discontinued owing to the death of his father, Cornelius Vanderbilt.

'96 Hon.—The engagement of Miss Tiffany of New York, to Professor Graham Lusk, at one time Professor in the University, has been announced.

YALE OBITUARIES.

DR. FRANCIS C. GREENE, '51 M.S.

Dr. Francis C. Greene, '51 M.S., died of heart trouble, August 2, at his home in Easthampton, Mass.

Dr. Greene was a native of New Haven, but after graduation settled in Easthampton, where for forty-five years he has practiced medicine. During the war with the South he performed the duties of a surgeon for McClellan in the Peninsular campaign. At the time of his death he was seventy-two years of age. A widow survives him.

DR. BENJAMIN C. JILLSON, '53 S.

Dr. Benjamin C. Jillson, '53 S., died in Pittsburg, Pa. in the latter part of August, of a painful liver trouble which has troubled him for some time.

Dr. Jillson was born in Willimantic, Conn., July 15, 1830, but for the greater part of his life was located in Pittsburg, Pa., where for some time he practiced medicine. During the Civil War he served as Chief Surgeon in the Philadelphia Hospital. For a number of years past he has been at the head of the Department of Natural Science in the People's College and the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Jillson is survived by a wife and four daughters.

HON. A. J. BARTHOLOMEW, '56.

Judge A. J. Bartholomew of Southbridge, Mass., died at his home in that town, July 17, after an illness of nearly a year. He was born at Hardwick, Mass., Oct. 1, 1833, and fitted for college at Leicester Academy, where he graduated in 1850. He then taught school for two years and entered college with his brother Nelson, who was afterwards killed in the war. Immediately after graduation, he entered the Harvard Law School and received his degree of LL.B. in 1858.

He soon located at Southbridge, where he built up a large and lucrative practice. He won the confidence of his fellow townsmen and served them in various local offices. In 1868 he was elected to the lower house of the State Legislature, and in 1871 and 1872 was a member of the State Senate, where he rendered important service in the revision of the statutes. For many years he held the Government offices of Collector of Internal Revenues and Register of Insolvency. His sterling character and professional skill won for him a high rank among the lawyers of Worcester County, where he secured many a triumph both as a civil and criminal practitioner. In 1894, he was appointed Judge of the First District Court of Southern Worcester County, which office he held at the time of his death.

He had been in failing health for some time, but did not abandon his work till April last, when he was too feeble to continue on the bench. He was greatly interested in historical research, and, at the time of his death, was President of the Southbridge Historical Society, of which he was the founder. In May, 1862, he married Miss Ellen Trow of Southbridge, a grandniece of Governor Marcy of New York. She survives him with five of their eight children. One son, Andrew M. Bartholomew, is in the Junior class at Brown University.

JOHN CALVIN DAY, '57.

John Calvin Day of Hartford, Conn., died June 24, at Dublin, New Hampshire, where he, with his family, was spending the Summer. Mr. Day had for two years been in failing health, and was finally stricken with paralysis, dying after a short illness at the age of sixty-three.

Mr. Day was the only son of one of Hartford's most public spirited and honored men, Calvin Day. His mother was Catherine Seymour Day. Among his ancestors were many of the well known and prominent families of Massachusetts and Connecticut, as Bradford, Wylls, Clap, Dudley, Haynes, Pitkin, Ely and Perkins. His boyhood was spent largely in Hartford, with several years at Mr. Dudley's school at Northampton. He entered Yale in the Class of 1857. In his class, among others, were Cyrus Northrop, President of the University of Minnesota; Augustus H. Strong, President of the Rochester Theological Seminary; Rev. Storrs O. Seymour of Litchfield; Hon. George M. Woodruff, Gen. Joseph C. Jackson (who married Mr. Day's sister), James Brewster Cone, Hon. Wm. C. Case and the Rev. Samuel Scoville. In 1865 Mr. Day received his degree of M.A.

After graduating Mr. Day traveled abroad very extensively, acquiring much facility in foreign languages, the study of which was a favorite pursuit with him during all his life. In 1864 he was Executive Secretary to Gov. Buckingham, and later entered upon the practice of law in Hartford, with Hon. Lewis E. Stanton as his partner, this partnership continuing for six years, after which Mr. Day practised law by himself. During both these periods Mr. Day was counsel for the old Hartford, Providence & Fishkill R. R., the National Exchange Bank and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

In 1887 Mr. Day went abroad with his family and spent much of his time during the last ten years in travel and residence abroad. Hartford's institutions had Mr. Day's sympathy and help. He was trustee for the American School for the Deaf and Dumb; also for the Insane Retreat, and Director in the National Exchange Bank, Hartford Fire Insurance Company, and Landers, Frary & Clark of New Britain. He had also large interests in other financial institutions. He was a member of the "Society of Colonial Wars."

Mr. Day married June 17, 1869, Miss Alice Beecher Hooker, daughter of the Hon. John and Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker. The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher of Plymouth Church, the uncle of the bride, officiated at the wedding, which took place at Mr. Hooker's residence. Mr. Day leaves two daughters, Miss Katherine Seymour and Miss Alice Day. His wife, and his sisters, Mrs. Joseph Cook Jackson of New York, Mrs. George P. Bissell and Miss Caroline E. Day of Hartford, also survive him. Mr. John Day Jackson, Yale '90, the publisher of the New Haven Register, was a nephew. Mr. Day was a lifelong attendant of the Center Church in Hartford, and with other members of his family placed there a memorial window to his father and mother. Mr. Day had a very sound knowledge of the law, and in all legal questions an unusually intelligent insight and clearness of judgment. His mind was broad and judicial. He was a man of culture and refinement, quiet and dignified in manner, with much kindness of heart. His love of truth and dislike of deceit or affectation were strongly marked characteristics.

DR. LUTHER H. WOOD, '67 S.

Dr. Luther H. Wood '67 S., died Sept. 4, in Denver, Colo., of Bright's disease. Dr. Wood was born in New Haven in 1847 and was the son of A. F. Wood. After receiving his degree from the Scientific School he entered the Yale Medical School and graduated two years later with the degree of M.D. He began at once the practice of his profession in New Haven. In 1874 he removed to Torrington, Conn., but after practicing there till 1884 he was obliged to go to the West for his health. He settled in Denver and practiced his profession with success until his death.

Dr. Wood married Miss Townsend of New Haven, daughter of Rev. J. Townsend, who survives him.

Eighty-Eight.

During the Summer the Decennial Record of the Class of Eighty-Eight has appeared. It contains a very full and interesting story of the Reunion and an excellent supplementary record of the Class from Sexennial to Decennial. A very good feature of the record is the full page portraits of the members of the Class who have died since Sexennial. The Decennial Reunion of the Class of 1888 was voted by all the members who were here at the time to be the best Class meeting they ever had, and the report of it which now appears shows some good reasons for their opinions. One of the pleasant features of the report was the passage of a vote of thanks to Mr. Pond, the Class Secretary, and the appointment of a committee to present to him a memorial on behalf of the Class. This memorial later sent to him has already been described in the WEEKLY.

Journal of Science Contents.

The contents of the American Journal of Science for October are as follows: "Explosive effect of Electrical Discharges," by J. Trowbridge, T. C. McKay and J. C. Howe; "Experiments relative to the Constitution of Pectolite, Pyrophyllite, Calamine, and Analcite," by F. W. Clarke and G. Steiger; "Color-vision and the Flicker Photometer," by O. N. Rood; "Iodometric Determination of Gold," by F. A. Gooch and F. H. Morley; "Mineralogical Structure and Chemical Composition of the Trap of Rocky Hill, N. J.," by A. H. Phillips; "Analyses of Italian Volcanic Rocks," by H. S. Washington; "Mineralogical Notes: Melonite, Coloradoite, Petzite, Hesseite," by W. F. Hillebrand; "Epidotite and Garnet from Idaho," by C. Palache; "Thermoelectricity in Certain Metals," by L. Holborn and A. L. Day.