

Junior Appointments.

Deopolis Parva Antiquities.

The Peabody Museum has recently received a very valuable collection of antiquities from the committee of the Egyptian Exploration Fund, which has been at work at Deopolis Parva, on the Upper Nile. This fund is made up of contributions from various countries and institutions, and the collection which has come to Yale is Connecticut's portion due from the contributions of her people. The collection includes pre-historic relics and vases cut from different kinds of stone, dating from the time of the early dynasties. There are also ornamented skulls of various species of animals which were used as bric-a-brac in the same period.

Four Nines Out.

Harvard has already had two weeks of Fall baseball practice and in the exceptionally fine weather has accomplished a great deal of good work which will make Spring improvement considerably more rapid. The squad is so large that it has been divided into four nines with substitutes and games are played between these nines every day to give the men actual practice on the field. Captain Reid is much pleased with the outlook for a very strong nine next Summer.
