

CHENEY COLLEGE CHAMPION.

Wins the Golf Tournament from Byers—Good All-round Play.

The Fall tournament of the University Golf Club which was played on the links of the New Haven Golf Club, between Monday, October 9, and Thursday, October 17, was won by T. L. Cheney, 1901. Mr. Cheney thus becomes the golf champion of the University for the present year, and will hold the Captain's plate during that time.

Sixty-two men entered the preliminary round this Fall, which is many more than last year, and forty of these handed in their cards.

The playing was of a very high order. The lowest score for qualifying, 72, was made by F. M. Robinson, 1901, while last year's lowest was 83.

The following men qualified for the first round: Robertson 78, Stickney 81, F. C. Havemeyer 82, T. L. Cheney, 83, Byers 85, Dwight 86, Ives 87, Barnes 87, Hitchcock 88, F. Ferry 88, Kellogg 88, Ludington 88, Phelps 89, Moore 89.

The consolation sixteen were as follows: J. Rhodes 90, C. Potter 90, Hudson 91, T. H. Thomas 91, Knapp 92, A. K. Merritt 92, Beckwith 93, Sherrill 93, Macneale 93, H. O. Havemeyer 93, J. Morey 93, Lyon 94, Otis 94, Adams 94, Taylor 95, Chisholm 95.

The first round's results were handed in on Thursday the 12th, and were as follows: T. M. Robertson, 1901, defeated Professor W. L. Phelps, 6 up and 4 to play; F. C. Havemeyer, 1900, defeated F. Ferry, 1900, 5 up and 4 to play; T. L. Cheney, 1901, defeated H. Moore, 1900, 8 up and 6 to play; E. M. Byers, 1901, defeated L. Meyers, 1900 S., 3 up and 1 to play; L. L. Kellogg, 1901, defeated A. T. Dwight, 1900 S., 1 up; E. Ives, 1900 S., defeated Ludington, 2 up and 1 to play; C. Hitchcock, Jr., 1903, defeated C. D. Barnes, 1902, 4 up and 3 to play.

In the consolation round the scores were as follows: W. Otis, 1900, defeated Rhodes, 5 up and 4 to play; Taylor defeated C. Potter, 1901, 9 up and 8 to play; Adams defeated Hudson, 3 up and 2 to play; Knapp defeated Morey, 6 up and 4 to go; MacNeale defeated Mr. Merritt by default; H. O. Havemeyer defeated L. B. Beckwith, 1902, 1 up; G. A. Lyon, Jr., 1900, defeated W. H. Sherrill, 1900, 2 up.

The results of the second round played on Friday were: T. L. Cheney, 1901, defeated F. C. Havemeyer, 1900, 1 up; C. Hitchcock, Jr., 1903, defeated E. L. Ives, P.G., 7 up and 6 to play; E. M. Byers, 1901, defeated L. L. Kellogg, 1901, 4 up and 2 to play; T. M. Robertson, 1901, defeated W. A. Stickney, 1901, 4 up and 3 to play.

The playing of Robertson was excellent, as he made his first round in thirty-nine strokes. In the consolation round H. O. Havemeyer, 1900, defeated G. A. Lyon, 1900, 8 up and 6 to play; N. Macneale, 1902 S., defeated E. S. Knapp, 1902, 3 up and 1 to play.

The semi-final round was played on Monday. In the play between Robertson and Cheney, the latter won with 5 to his opponent's 6. Nineteen holes had to be played to decide this match; Byers, 1901, defeated Hitchcock, 1903, 4 up and 3 to play.

In the finals Cheney defeated Byers principally by excellence in the short game, as the latter's long work was superior to his opponent's. Byers showed his nervousness at several critical points where a good put meant the winning of a hole. The first hole went to Byers 5 to 4, but at the end of the first round he was one down. By almost perfect golf Cheney took the next three holes and he seemed a sure winner. But Byers here displayed good nerve by capturing three out of the next five and halving the other two. Cheney was dormie at the eighteenth tee, but Byers missed a four-foot put for the hole and could only halve in 5, which gave the match to his opponent by the score 1 up. Both men made the course in an excellent 82.

Debating Conference.

A debating conference was held at 62 Vanderbilt, Friday afternoon, from 2.30 to 5.30. Representatives were present from Yale, Harvard and Princeton. A member of the Faculty and an undergraduate represented each college, the respective representatives being as follows: Yale, Dr. E. V. Reynolds, and A. D. Leavitt, 1900, President of the Yale Debating Association; Harvard, Prof. Baker and R. C. Bolling, President of the Harvard University Debating Club; Princeton, Prof. Daniels and J. H. Moffat, Chairman of the Princeton Intercollegiate Debating Committee.

Prof. Baker and Prof. Daniels were appointed a sub-committee to draw up a form of instruction to be given to the judges who decide the intercollegiate debates.

It was decided in regard to the selection of judges, that the challenging university shall submit to the university challenged, at least six weeks before the debate, a list of twenty men, who are eligible to serve as judges, and nine names selected from this list shall be returned within two weeks. The three judges will be chosen from this list of nine. It was considered advisable to give up the customary banquets which have heretofore been given after the debates. It was also decided that for the coming year the affirmative side should close the debate.

Judging from the interest shown in the conference, it seems likely that a very successful year of debating lies ahead.

The Late Dr. James Campbell.

Dr. James Campbell, M.D., University of Vt., '71, and Yale '91 M.A., one of the most distinguished physicians in the State, died at his home in Hartford, Conn., Tuesday morning, Oct. 17, from cancer of the stomach.

Dr. Campbell was a son of Judge James Campbell, of Manchester, Conn., and was born in that town, Nov. 14, 1848. He received a liberal education, including a two years' course in medicine in Europe, where he was identified with hospitals in Berlin, Prague and Dublin. From the outset Dr. Campbell was interested in sanitary issues and was president of the Hartford Board of Health from its organization Nov. 12, 1885, until the time of his death.

In 1886 he was appointed Professor of Obstetrics in Yale Medical School, and held the position until last June, when he resigned. He was one of the foremost members of the State Medical Society and was president of the Hartford County Medical Society in 1898. He was also a member of the American Medical Association; Public Health Association of United States and Canada; a member of the New York Academy of Medicine and of the Association of Life Insurance Companies of the United States and Canada. He was president of the Marine Mills of Vernon, and also a member of the Church of the Good Shepherd and of the Church Club of the Connecticut Diocese. The Campbell gold medal which is annually awarded to the student in the Medical School who has maintained the highest standing in his studies throughout the three years' course, was established by Dr. Campbell.

Dr. Campbell leaves a wife and two children, a son and a daughter. The son, James N. H. Campbell, is a Freshman at Yale.

The Chess Tournament.

A tournament has been in progress for the last two weeks to decide who will represent Yale in the annual intercollegiate chess match during the Christmas vacation in New York. The results of the first round are as follows: E. B. Adams, 1901, won 9, lost 1; W.
