"James B. Neale, who succeeds Mr. Law, is a comparatively young man, probably 30 or 35 years of age. He came originally from a small town near Pittsburg, where his family was engaged in the coke business. Graduating from Yale University, he chose mine management as his life work, and in order to gain the practical experience so desirable, entered the mines of the Pennsylvania Coal Co. as an assistant foreman. For some time he was located in the Schooley mine and later in the mines at Dunmore. For several months past he has occupied a responsible position with the Scranton Coal Co., in Scranton, the new concern that operates collieries controlled by the Ontario & Western Railroad Co. Mr. Neale comes to a position of responsibility at an early age, but those acquainted with his abilities have no fear but that he will be able to meet all the requirements. He will have under his supervision five collieries—the Twin and the Ravine, in Pittston; the Phoenix and Columbia, at Duryea, and the Girard, at Mt. Carmel."

New York Yale Dinner.

The annual New York Yale dinner will be held this year on the evening of Friday, December 8, at Delmonico's, and will be open to all Yale men whether members of the Club or not. The price of the dinner will be $6.00 per plate and applications accompanied by the necessary remittance should be made at the Club at as early a date as possible. President Hadley will deliver an address.

LONG ISLAND ASSOCIATION.

Fall Meeting Well Attended—Bull's Illustration of Football.

The regular Fall meeting of the Long Island Association, Nov. 18, crowded the parlors of the Brooklyn Club and was especially marked for the presence of many recent graduates, new accessions to the rolls of this Association. Mr. Joseph A. Burr, '71, presided, and introduced as the ante-prandial speaker Mr. F. W. Williams of the Yale Faculty, who gave a keen and scholarly exposition of the Eastern question. After the supper a la Moriarty, Mr. H. S. Brooks, Yale '85, was called upon to talk of the Yale-Harvard athletic partnership of last Summer, its subsequent triumphs and reverses. Mr. Wm. T. Bull, Yale '88 S., followed with an admirable talk on the football situation, and by means of blackboard and chalk made plain some football formations which would probably be used by Harvard on Saturday. The finer points of the modern game were elucidated in this way to the enlightenment of the large company of laymen.

Mr. Frank J. Price, Yale '92, Assemblyman elect, modestly related how he cornered the market in grizzlies this Summer by bowling over two silver tip bears, in a way that would have been creditable to the mightier Nimrod who is Governor of his State.

The meeting was attended by about one hundred and fifty graduates.

Ex-President Dwight Exchanges His Property.

Negotiations have recently been completed, by which ex-President Dwight exchanges his residence on the corner of College and Wall Streets for the University property on the Northwest corner of Hillhouse Avenue and Schem Street, occupied for some time by Miss Cady's School for Girls. This exchange gives the University property of 80 feet on College Street and 150 feet on Wall, in the heart of the territory on which the University is developing. The property on Hillhouse Avenue, which will, after a few months, become the home of ex-President Dwight, has about eighty feet frontage on Hillhouse Avenue and about four hundred on Schem Street, running back to Prospect Street.

Pacan Yalensis.

The following song, written by a graduate of the Class of '81, may be sung at the Princeton game to original music:

Hurrah! Hurrah! Lift up the cry for Yale.
Fling out, with shout, her banner to the gale.
On waves of song our cheers are borne along:
Rally, boys, for Eli!
Hurrah for Yale!

No foe we know, that can inspire a fear;
Defeat we meet with just another cheer;
If for an hour it seems to overpower,
It's "Rally, boys, for Eli!"
Hurrah for Yale!

A cheer sincere to the bravest of our foes,
The zest is best when heaviest are the blows.
Our gauntlet's thrown, but the hand will clasp your own.
Rally, boys, for Eli!
Hurrah for Yale!"

All hail to Yale! Her trophies set it forth
How true the blue to loyalty and worth.
Our banners wave over legions of the brave.
Whoop her up for Eli!
Hurrah for Yale!

Cornell Wins Cross Country.

The first annual cross-country run of the Intercollegiate Cross Country Association was held on Saturday, November 18th, on the Morris Park race track course, near New York. The course was six and two-thirds miles long and included about forty-five obstacles in the way of hurdles and water jumps. Cornell won the team championship, and J. F. Creegan of Princeton the individual prize. Yale, University of Pennsylvania, and Columbia finished second, third and fourth respectively, Princeton failed to qualify, as four men of the team did not finish in the first twenty-five.

Yale has accepted a challenge sent by Cornell for a dual cross country meet to be held in Ithaca, December 2.

The course to be run will be seven miles long, and the winning team is to receive a banner and its members team prizes.

The importance and significance of the banquet of the Chamber of Commerce of New Haven requires a fairly complete record. This record will be as interesting later as it is now. It can hold better than other matter and so goes over into another issue.
