was present at the taking of Port Hudson and Donaldsonville, and participated in Gen. Bank's expedition through Louisiana to New Orleans.

After being mustered out in August, 1863, Mr. Magill established a boarding school for boys in Old Lyme, Conn. In 1865 he received the degree of M.A. from Yale. In 1868 he opened a school for boys in Newton, N. J., and in 1870 removed to New Haven, where he conducted a school until his retirement in 1876.

Since 1878, Mr. Magill has lived in Amherst, Mass., spending his time on his farm and with his duties as treasurer of the Amherst Coöperative Creamery Association, which he largely helped to organize in 1882.

Mr. Magill's mother survives him, now 87 years of age, the only living aunt of President Hadley of Yale. The widow, Matilda Smith Magill, and four children also survive him: Maud Helen, Dr. William S., Claud A., and Arthur E. Magill.

FREDERIC SANFORD CALHOUN, '83.

Frederic Sanford Calhoun, '83, died at Newton, Mass., Thursday, Nov. 23. Mr. Calhoun, son of David Calhoun, was born in New Haven, 1862. After graduating at Yale and traveling for a year, Mr. Calhoun entered the firm of R. Wells & Co., wholesale drug house in New Haven. In four years he became a member of the firm and in 1892 he was conducting the business alone, under the style of F. S. Calhoun & Co.

He was a member of the Church of the Redeemer, and also a member of the Graduates', the Country and the Antantawae Club, and of the University Club of New York.

Mr. Calhoun's health had been very poor for several years, and while visiting in Newton, he had a hemorrhage of the lungs which proved fatal. Mr. Calhoun is survived by a mother and sister and a wife and child.

OLIVER H. PERRY, '99 S.

On Wednesday, November 29, occurred the death at Omaha, Neb. of Oliver H. Perry, '99 S. Mr. Perry, after graduating, went to his home at Southport, Conn., but soon after this, in July, he left to accept a position in the Civil Engineering Department of the Union Pacific Railroad. He was sent by them to Kansas and worked there during the Summer. In October he was taken sick with typhoid fever and went to Omaha to be with his friend C. L. Sherwood, '98 S. He died there after an illness of four weeks. The funeral services were held at his home in Southport, Conn. on Monday, December 4th, at 2.30 o'clock.

The news of his death will be a shock to a great many men, who rated him high for his character and worth. A friend, writing of his death, uses the sentence "He was a manly man and in the best sense of the term a true Yale man." Mr. Perry was the only son of H. H. Perry, '69 S. An uncle, Hon. John H. Perry, graduated in 1870, another uncle, Winthrop H. Perry, graduated in 1876. A grandfather graduated in 1834 and another uncle in 1853.

The Late W. D. Manro, '88.

The following minute was recently adopted by the Class of Eighty-Eight through its committee:

William Davis Manro, born in Auburn, N. Y., June 27, 1864. Died at Minneapolis, Oct. 18, 1899. The news of the sad and tragic close of Manro's life has startled his classmates with a feeling of grief and horror. In a moment of temporary insanity he threw himself from the Washington Avenue Bridge in Minneapolis, and no trace of his body has as yet been discovered. Fitted for College at Phillips Andover, Manro was for several years the associate and classmate of many of our number. He brought to College a cheerfulness of temper, a genial and social nature, which made him quickly the companion and friend of his fellows. Tragedy and sorrow seemed strangers to him. Wit and good humor were his natural gifts. By these he will be long remembered among his classmates. His early successes in the profession of teaching seem to have been unusual. He became principal of two schools in Rome, N. Y., within a year after leaving college and a little later the superintendent of all the city schools. He left Rome to accept a similar position in Paterson, N. J.; but soon found a new outlet for his activities in the insurance business. At the time of his death he was about to represent a large company in the city of Minneapolis.

Behind a cloud which no human eye can penetrate he slipped out of life. All the more tenderly we sorrow for him—sorrow over the remembrance of his suffering, and for his loss. To those who were near to him and who loved him we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Who is the LEADER?

That is an exceedingly hard question to answer in relation to the football season. It has been up and down with nearly all the big elevens all the season—unexpected slumps and unexpected rallies.

The season is not long or varied enough, with conditions as they now are, to establish the place of the different teams. Consider how long it takes in the game of business to establish one house well in the lead of all the others. Years and history are, for instance, back of the great athletic house that supplies nearly all the football elevens and other athletic teams of the country.
