THE LATIN PLAY.

The Latin play "The Flight of Aeneas," which had been looked forward to so long, was successfully presented Friday evening, April 20. Saturday afternoon, a matinee performance was given for the benefit of out-of-town people. The audience was not large.

The drama was arranged from Virgil by Miss Mabel Hay Barrows of Boston, who directed all the rehearsals and had charge of the arrangements. She was assisted by H. B. Noble, the President of the dramatic club. The presentation had been postponed from last term on account of the unexpected closing of school.

All the members of the cast acquitted themselves very creditably. The leading parts, Aeneas, Queen Dido, Anchises, Andromache, were carried out in a manner not often seen on the amateur stage.

The athletic games were excellent, and the dancing was truly remarkable. The parts of Entellus and Dares were appropriately held by D. G. Crawford, the captain of the track team, and R. P. Kinney, the big football player, respectively, and the encounter between them was interesting. Throughout the whole piece, the action, though intense at times, was sincere and without "staginess." The stage, with its plain, dark background of fir trees, gave an air of classical simplicity.

The cast was as follows:

Aeneas, J. R. Bloomer; Anchises, F. K. Hill; Achates, T. A. Butkiewicz; Ascanius, H. W. Bell; Mercury, H. G. Noble; Helenus, A. C. Halpin; Illioneus, F. L. Collins; Princes Bitias and Jopas, J. S. Season; Dido, J. R. Irvine; Andromache, G. Browning; Anna, P. H. Sherwin; Creuse, N. F. Bartlett; Venus, A. L. Einstein; Iris, N. R. Becker; Barce, R. Park; Priestess, W. C. Kitchell; Dares, R. P. Kinney; Nisus, W. A. Schick, Jr.; Entellus, D. G. Crawford; Acestes, F. J. O'Connor; Trojans, Carthaginians, courtiers, followers of Helenus, slaves, hand-maidens, dancers and musicians, D. H. Botchford, F. N. Benedict, J. M. Cates, R. D. Brown, A. N. Robbins, W. D. Wadsworth, L. M. Clucas, W. C. Matthews, E. E. Beals, E. S. Paine, H. G. Tyer, C. E. Tirrell, C. V. Swanton, H. G. Mullen, H. C. Cole, F. G. Becker, L. H. Whitney, S. F. B. Morse, B. Winslow, D. B. Barsanian.

BASEBALL.

Andover opened the baseball season April 14 by suffering defeat at the hands of the Tufts second team in a ten-inning game with a score of 9 to 8. The game with Tufts University team scheduled for April 17 was cancelled. April 21, the team defeated Boston University Law School 8 to 1, in a very loosely played game. Stevens was in the box for the first time and struck out

8 men. On account of an injury to his hand, he was replaced by Lannigan in the eighth inning. There is a dearth of pitchers.

Andover was defeated by Dartmouth 6 to 4 in a good game Thursday, April 26. Stevens was in the box, and pitched strongly. Andover's team work was good, and there were few errors; but her batting was poor.

Joseph L. Burns of Andover has been elected captain of the 1901 baseball team in place of John C. Angus, resigned.

SOCIETY OF INQUIRY.

The Society of Inquiry has elected officers for the Spring and Fall terms as follows: President, William Johnson Colby of East Weymouth, Mass.; Vice-President, Joseph John Crippen of Denver, Col.; Recording Secretary, Edward E. The University of the South, at Sewanee, Tennessee, has placed its 8,000-acre tract of hardwood timber near that town under the management of the Division of Forestry. An official of the Division will mark all trees to be cut and will draw up the logging contracts to provide for the preservation of young growth. It is intended to make the forest yield a permanent annual revenue to go toward the support of the College.
