

about twenty yards of the run in, finishing an easy winner in 51½ seconds with Clerk second, and Dean, third. Brennan and Richardson, the other Yale starters, were not in the running at any stage of the race.

SHOT PUT.

Shortly after the completion of the quarter-mile the result of the shotput was announced. Beck, Yale, had won, with 43 feet 5 inches, Ellis and Brown, both Harvard, having secured second and third places respectively. Francis of Yale proved a great disappointment, his best put measuring less than 37 feet.

HIGH JUMP.

The high jump, which took place while the preliminary heats for the short dash and high hurdles and the quarter and mile runs were being contested, went solid to Harvard. Rice won with a jump of 6 feet, Rotch was second, and Ellis and Glidden tied for third.

With the finals of the hundred and the high hurdles over, Yale's prospects were brighter than at any time during the afternoon. The teams stood tied with 24 points each, but the doubtful sprint had gone to Yale with a fair apportionment of doubtful seconds and thirds.

HALF-MILE RUN.

Harvard sent pace-makers ahead in the half, but Smith, Yale's dangerous man, laid back as he had done in the mile, in spite of the fact that the first lap was run in slow time. On the early part of the second lap he found himself hopelessly boxed, but finally getting free on the back stretch, sprinted to the front, about 200 yards from the finish. Applegate of Harvard, followed him around the turn, second by four yards, with Poynter, Yale, in third position, the other competitors having dropped to the rear. Smith maintained his place until the head of the stretch was reached, when he weakened perceptibly and Applegate began to close up the gap. Then followed a desperate fight on the run-in, and the Harvard man got to the front ten yards from the line and won in 2 minutes and 2 seconds. On the two previous Saturdays, Smith had covered the distance in time a second and three-fifths faster. His hard mile earlier in the afternoon had evidently been too much for him, though a postponement of his spurt might have saved him the race.

TWO-MILE RUN.

Three Harvard men, Richardson, Foote and Blakemore, developed remarkable speed in the two-mile run, and secured all three places. Richardson and Foote ran a killing race, which was finally won in the stretch by the former, in 9 minutes 57½ seconds. Waldron, Yale, passed Blakemore on the seventh lap and made plucky try for third place, but the pace was too fast for him and he was finally forced to drop back after holding his lead through 300 yards.

BROAD JUMP.

The broad jump was completed during the progress of the long run and, as was expected, turned out an eight-point event for Harvard, Shirk winning with a jump of 21 feet 6½ inches and Daly and Harris securing second and third place respectively.

TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY YARDS HURDLE.

Hallowell and Hubbard of Harvard had little difficulty in beating out Mead, Yale, in the first preliminary heat of the 220-yards hurdles. Thomas of Yale, however, qualified in the second heat by running second to Willis of Harvard. The final heat was a race between Hallowell, Thomas and Willis, in which the Yale man ran even with his opponents until he struck his toe on the last flight and lost his stride. Hallowell's winning time was 25½ seconds and Willis took second place from Thomas.

TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY YARDS DASH.

Richards, Yale, won the first trial heat in the 220-yards dash from Clerk and Butler, both of Harvard, in 22½ seconds, the best time made in the event and equal to the Yale-Harvard dual meet record. But two Harvard men covered the distance in the second heat, Lighter and Haigh, and they qualified after trotting over the distance second and third to Boardman's 23½ seconds performance. In the finals, Boardman allowed Haigh and Clerk to get fully a three-yards lead on him in the first part of the dash, which he did not begin to close up until about 50 yards from the finish. Then his wonderful stride began to tell and he passed his men at the 200 mark, winning with a yard to spare, in 22½ seconds. Clerk and Butler tied for second place, for Richards, evidently exhausted by his three previous hard races, finished a poor fourth.

HAMMER THROW.

It was expected that Stillman would win the hammer throw if he could keep inside the ring. This he failed to do, however, and the event went to Harvard through Boal's throw of 144 feet 2½ inches. Stillman fouled frequently, spoiling one throw of 149 feet 5 inches by simply being obliged to touch his hand to the ground outside the circle in order to avoid losing his balance. His best fair throw, 134 feet 6 inches, secured second place and Ellis, Harvard, after scoring in the shotput and high jump, was third.

POLE VAULT.

Johnson, Yale, won the pole vault without difficulty, but Adriance and Hord, both Yale, were forced to divide the points for second and third with Hoyt and Prouty, Harvard, at 10 feet 6 inches.

The following table shows how the meet was won and lost:

West Point's Gift to Yale.

The West Point Football Association last week sent to Yale a handsome loving cup, bearing the seals of both institutions, in recognition of the friendly relations existing between the two institutions. The cup was accompanied by a letter from W. Reese Bettison, the Manager of the Football Team, expressing pleasure at the long continued and cordial relations between Yale and West Point, and the hope that friendly relations might be continued in the future. The Yale Daily News, commenting on the incident, says: "Yale accepts this cordial act in the spirit which prompted it and trusts that in the future she may find in West Point the honorable and esteemed rival of the past."

KAHKOU CAMP AND CANOE TOURS.

A summer of real roughing in the woods of Maine. Conducted by E. H. Wells (Yale '93), lately of the Hopkinson School, Boston, and by A. S. Gregg Clarke of the Gunnery School, Washington, Conn. Civilization is left behind and the summer is spent on the Penobscot and Allagash waters. Special and separate provision is made for those who wish to be tutored for college examinations.
