

trials and held their third and fourth places respectively.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.

Won by S. S. Jones, New York University, with 5 feet 10½ inches; A. N. Rice, Harvard, second, with 5 feet 9½ inches; W. C. Carroll, Princeton, G. P. Serviss, Princeton, and C. M. Rotch, Harvard, tied for third, with 5 feet 8½ inches.

Carroll of Princeton and Rice of Harvard had been looked on as likely winners in this event, but Jones of New York University stepped in and took the place. The ground was in very bad shape and bothered Carroll and Rice somewhat and also accounts for the poor performance in the event. The points for second and third were divided evenly between Carroll, Rotch and Serviss.

POLE VAULT.

Won by Bascom Johnson, Yale, with 11 feet 3¼ inches; A. W. Coleman, Princeton, second, with 11 feet; D. S. Horton, Princeton, third, with 10 feet 9 inches; E. A. Kinsey, Cornell, and W. Adriance, Yale, tied for third, with 10 feet 6 inches.

The pole vault was one of the best performances of the day, when the state of the weather is taken into account. The runway here was every bit as bad as in the high jump, and the poles constantly slipped. Johnson cleared eleven feet without much difficulty. Coleman failed on his first two trials, but on the third just got over. The bar was then put up to 11 feet 3¼ inches and Johnson cleared it on his second try. Coleman missed on his first two tries and used up his last try by balking three times. Johnson then put the bar up to 11 feet 5¼ inches and tried to break the record of 11 feet 5 inches. On his last try he cleared the bar, but did not have sufficient carry, and knocked it off as he came down. Kinsey of Cornell and Adriance of Yale could not improve on their trial and divided the point for fourth place.

The events were all run off without a hitch, and were finished a little before five o'clock, the final in the 220-yards dash being just run as the pole vault was finished. At the end the Yale men were all in good shape and beyond being tired showed no ill effects from their work.

A TABLE OF PLACES.

The following table will show the number of places won by each college, as well as the total number of points. First counts 5, second 3, third 2, and fourth 1:

SENIOR ELECTIONS.

Names and Records of Those Chosen to the Three Societies.

The elections to the Academic Senior Societies were given out on the Campus, Thursday, May 24, between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, in the usual method of tapping. The elections began with the first stroke of the five o'clock chimes and were all finished before six o'clock. Scroll and Key announced its fifteenth election at quarter before six and Skull and Bones and Wolf's Head finished their elections ten minutes later. The elections to the three societies proceeded simultaneously from the start.

The great crowd filled the north end of the Campus, the dormitory windows, Dwight Hall steps and other points of vantage. The excitement was even more intense than usual, the number of strong candidates in the class being
