Yale, 3; Brown, 7.

Brown took the deciding ball game of the series with Yale by beating Yale, 7 to 3, at Providence, May 30. Yale could not hit Washburn when there were runners on bases, and by some bad errors helped Brown to get a winning lead. Sullivan, who caught for the first time in a month, did some good work. Cook accepted five difficult chances in the field, but could not make a safe hit. Garvan was hit safely eleven times.

Yale, 1903, 8; Princeton, 1903, 4.

The Yale Freshman Nine defeated the Princeton Freshmen in the first game of the series, at Princeton, Saturday, May 26, 8 to 4. Rain fell almost all the time of the contest. Alsop, for Yale, pitched a steady, effective game. Blount led at the bat with three singles and a two-base hit. Encouraging features of the game were the cleanness of the fielding and the head work used in base-running.

Yale, 1903, 7; Princeton, 1903, 1.

The Yale Freshman team won the second baseball game and the series with the Princeton Freshmen at the Field, Wednesday, May 30, through their ability to hit Freeman, and to steal bases on him. Wescott pitched a steady game for the Yale Freshmen, and allowed only two hits. His support, was erratic, Thompson at short stop making four errors.

Oglesby and Smith played the best game for Yale.

Princeton Won Bicycle Meet.

In the annual intercollegiate bicycle meet, held at Woodside Park, Philadelphia, Decoration Day, Princeton won the championship with a total of twenty-two points, Yale taking second place with twenty-one points. Columbia came in third with seven points and the University of Pennsylvania fourth with five. Swarthmore and Cornell failed to win a place. The fine work of the day was the riding of Bert Ripley, of Princeton, whose remarkable spurring in the mile and half-mile events won the championship for Princeton. Yale was rather badly handicapped by the illness of Captain Strong. Again, the team met with bad luck in the five-mile event, in which Moore's tire burst, losing Yale a probable place. In a preliminary heat J. H. Overall, 1902 S. reduced the half-mile intercollegiate record to 1 m. 53 1/2 sec. The one mile tandem race called for an unusually close decision, as it was almost a dead heat. Owen G. Butts, 1902 S., who finished in the quarter mile in a dead heat, was awarded his "Y." Pennsylvania's chances for third place were spoiled by a collision in the five-mile event, in which Captain Hopkins injured his knee quite badly. First places counted five points, second, three points, third, two points, and fourth, one point.

The summary:

Quarter-mile—Won by E. W. Farley, 1901 S., Yale, and O. G. Butts, 1902 S., Yale, in a dead heat; F. S. Barnity, Pennsylvania, second. Time, 31 1/2 sec. Half-mile—Won by Bert Ripley, Princeton; J. H. Overall, 1902 S., Yale, second; C. R. Rose, Columbia, third. One mile—Won by Bert Ripley, Princeton; S. W. McClave, Princeton, second; C. V. Voorhees, Jr., Pennsylvania, third; E. W. Farley, 1901 S., Yale, fourth. Time, 2 minutes 49 3/4 sec. One mile tandem—Won by H. R. Levick and S. W. McClave, Princeton; E. A. Strong, 1900 S. and M. Moore, 1902, Yale, second; E. W. Farley, 1901 S. and J. H. Overall, 1902 S., Yale, third. Time, 2 minutes 16 seconds. Five mile—Won by C. R. Rose, Columbia; Bert Ripley, Princeton, second; E. W. Farley, 1901 S., Yale, third; W. C. Langley, 1903, Yale, fourth. Time, 11 minutes 35 1/2 seconds.

A Gift for Mr. Johnston.

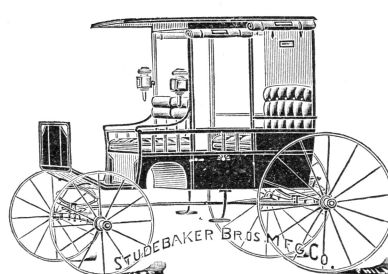

After the game with the Harvard Freshmen at Cambridge, June 2, the members of the Yale Freshman Baseball Team presented Leslie M. Johnston, 1902, of Westmoreland, N. Y., the coach of the team, with a gold watch, in recognition of his conscientious work with the team during the season. On the back of the watch are engraved the initials "L. M. J.," and inside the cover is the inscription "Presented by the Yale 1903 Baseball Team."

Colonel Jacob L. Greene, M.A., 1898, delivered an address on "An Ideal Currency" before the American Social Science Association at Washington, May 10. The address has since been published in pamphlet form.
