Townsend Speakers.

The men who received the Townsend premiums in the Class of Nineteen Hundred, and who will speak in competition for the DeForest Medal on Friday of this week at 3 P. M. in Battell Chapel, with a few words about each, are the following:

Herbert Brewster Fuller, formerly of Brunswick, Georgia, now of Glen Ridge, N. J., prepared with tutors. He received a First Disputes appointment in Junior year. His subject is "The Battle of Tours."

Maurice P. Gould of Wabaunsee, Kan., took two years at Washburn College, Topeka, Kansas and entered Nineteen Hundred in Sophomore year. He is now President of the German Club. He was a member of the Wigwam, received a Second Dispute appointment in Junior year, and was one of the Ten Eyck speakers at the Junior Exhibition. He is one of the Class Historians. His subject is "Maximilian, a Drama of Mexico." Mr. Gould is twenty-seven years old.

Henry Thomas Hunt of Cincinnati, O., prepared at the Franklin School of

"Sir Thomas Moore and William Tyn-dale." Mr. Jones is twenty-four years old.

John Henry Klosterman of Portland, Ore., entered Yale from the Portland Academy, after having studied a year in preparation for West Point. He has taken a lively interest in debating and was one of the six selected by Mr. Bailey to speak in competition for the Sophomore Elocution Prize. His subject is "Edwin Booth in Hamlet." Mr. Klosterman is twenty-three years old.

Charlton Brice Thompson of Covington, Ky., prepared with a private tutor. He received a First Dispute appointment in Junior year and was one of the Ten Eyck speakers of his class. He is also one of the Class Historians. His subject is "Richelieu." Mr. Thompson is twenty-one years old.

John A. Porter Subjects.

The list of John A. Porter Prize Essay subjects in the competition for 1901 will appear in the Commencement issue of the Yale News and in the Commencement number of the YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY. This prize is a University prize of $250.00. The essays in competition for the prize for 1901 will be due May 1st of next year.

Professor Cook's Poetry Prize.

The poetry prize, offered annually by Professor Albert S. Cook, of the English Language and Literature Department of Yale, was awarded last week to Charles Alexis Kellogg, Jr., 1900, Carthage, Mo., whose subject was, "The Mother's Sleep." Honorable mention was made of Ray Morris, 1901, New Haven, poem, "Anchorage Song"; William Savage Johnson, 1900, Meriden, Conn., poem, "Lyrics of Evening," and William Brian Hooker, 1902, Farmington, Conn., poem, "Cassandra." The judges were Prof. Charlton M. Lewis of Yale; Prof. George E. Woodbury of Columbia University, and Prof. Charles E. Richardson of Dartmouth.

Saturday, June 30—Yale vs. Harvard, baseball game on neutral grounds in case of a tie.

Princeton, 9; Harvard, 2.

Princeton took the second baseball game from Harvard, Wednesday, June 13, at Princeton, 9 to 2. Stillman was in the box for Harvard, but in the first four innings the Princeton batters fell to hitting him as they hit Robertson in the ninth inning of the Yale game, hard and ran up the big total of nine runs. Kernan was substituted for Stillman in the fifth and kept the hits well down. Hillebrand pitched a strong and steady game for Princeton, and his men backed him up magnificently. Harvard scored one run in the third and one in the seventh, the first through a three-base hit by Coolidge and the last on Meier's poor throw aided by Clark's single.
