

Changes in the Crew.

The Yale Crew has now been rowing a week on the Thames, and several important changes have been made in the boat, during that time, which will probably be permanent. P. L. Mitchell, 1901, at bow has been displaced by G. G. Lincoln, 1902. J. P. Brock, 1900, who has been rowing since Easter at 4, has been moved up to 5, in place of J. W. Cross, 1900, P. H. Kunzig, L.S., taking Brock's old seat. Niiedecken at 3, and Wickes at 2, suffered somewhat from the change from New Haven to the Ferry, and were kept out of the boat several days, resting.

Rough water has kept the Crews pretty closely to Horton's Cove, and in the upper part of the river, only two time rows having been tried up to the present writing. One of these, made under favorable conditions, the latter part of last week, was fairly good. The Crew is still a long way from smoothness in form, and the changes have added to the difficulties of getting into perfect trim before the 28th.

Every preparation is being made by the railroads to carry great crowds to see the races. The Central Vermont, the old observation route, has this year built and equipped an entirely new observation train, with comfortable seats, in which passengers can be protected from sun or rain.

Mr. Hendrie's Gift.

In response to a circular letter recently sent out to a number of the graduates by the Yale Young Men's Christian Association, asking for contributions to support the now much enlarged work of the Association, a check for five hundred dollars was received in return mail from Mr. John W. Hendrie, Yale '51, of South Beach, Conn. This adds to a long list of Yale benefactions of which Mr. Hendrie has been the source in the last few years. He was the largest giver for the Law School building, his gifts amounting to about $65,000. He also gave very liberally to the building fund of the Yale Mission.

Exeter Wins the Meet.

Phillips Exeter Academy won the Interscholastic Track Meet at Soldiers Field, Cambridge, by a score of 26 points. Phillips Andover was second with 21½ points. More details of the meet will appear in the School Correspondence of the next issue.

An Alumni Weekly Dinner.

A dinner was given by the ALUMNI WEEKLY to a number of Yale men at the New Haven House June 6. A record of those who attended and a short account of the dinner will be given in another issue.

A Business-Like Letter from a College.

The following is an illustration of the strictly business-like methods pursued by some colleges. The letter, with the heading, is the form of reply at a well known college, to a request for a catalogue:

PLEASE ACKNOWLEDGE.

DEAR SIR:—It will be a favor if you will acknowledge the receipt of this catalogue, and at the same time state whether we may expect you here as a student;

if so, at what time, and for which of the courses of study. If further information is desired, it will be cheerfully given. We shall be glad to enroll you among our students.

The Alumni of — are scattered through all parts of the Union, and hold responsible and useful positions, viz.: Lawyers 673, including 39 judges and 68 members of Congress or the Legislature; Ministers 546, including 38 foreign missionaries; Physicians 351; Professors and Teachers 303; Editors 72. Fourteen have received LL.D., and 83 D.D. The Technical professions 559, include 222 Civil Engineers, 45 Mining Engineers, 72 Chemists and Assayers, 46 in Electrical work, 58 in Railroad management, 90 in Coal and Iron business, and 27 in U. S. Army and Navy.

In active life there are 92 Bankers, 42 Druggists, 287 Merchants, 160 Manufacturers, 243 Business Men, 74 Farmers, and 60 in other pursuits. The alumni and Faculty are the authors of over 200 bound volumes.

Twenty-three annual prizes are given for excellence in study and speaking. An account of the Games and Athletic Records at — can be had from the Registrar. For information as to Terms of Admission, Expenses, and Entrance Certificate blanks address the REGISTRAR, ETC.

Dramatic Club Finances.

The report of the Yale Dramatic Association, which is soon to be published, will show, that although the expenses of the recent productions were large, being in all over $1,200, there is only a $40 deficit. If all dues can be collected this deficit will be reduced to $15, which is considered a very satisfactory situation, by the officers of the Association. Another year the general feeling is that a good surplus will be found in the treasury.

Nineteen Hundred and One Cup Men.

The Cup men for the Class of 1901 are: James Mandeville Carlisle, Washington, D. C., appointed by Frank Dexter Cheney, South Manchester, Conn.; Julian Day, New York City, appointed by John Sherlock Ferguson, Stockholm, Sweden; Joseph Medill Patterson, Chicago, appointed by Joseph Medill McCormick, Chicago; Leonard Moorhead Thomas, Philadelphia, appointed by Crispin Oglebay, Kansas City, Mo.; Thomas Safford Adams, 1901 S., New York City, appointed by John Hamilton Inman, New York City, and Henry Pearce, Jr., Providence, R. I., appointed by Charles Bispham Levey, Elizabeth, New Jersey.
